February 2020 Volume XLVII, Number 8

One of the things I've always loved about public media is our unique ability to bring you diverse documentaries on multiple platforms. As your local public media station, we have the opportunity to present to you not just national, award winning documentaries, the best of regional documentary film-making in Reel Midwest, but also locally-produced programs, like the March premier of Illinois Country, that provide insight into our community and celebrate our uniqueness. We share amazing stories that provide unexpected and engaging perspectives about our world.

This month, the always enlightening series Independent Lens will air Cooked that explores racial injustice, while We Believe in Dinosaurs considers the relationship between faith and science. Both are produced by Illinois filmmakers. Meanwhile, Frontline continues to provide in-depth coverage of important current events, and their exploration of the Amazon corporation is not to be missed.

But not all documentaries are on television. New to Sundays on WILL-AM 580, the podcast White Lies delves deep into an unsolved murder from 1965 in Selma, Alabama.

If you share my passion for documentaries, then I encourage you to explore this month's Patterns. I've only scratched the surface of the great content available to you over the air and online.

WILL-TV features Miles Davis for Black History Month

American Masters presents the premiere of award-winning filmmaker Stanley Nelson's deep dive into the world of a beloved musical giant. American Masters—Miles Davis: Birth of the Cool, which earned a Grammy nomination in the "Best Music Film" category, premieres at 8 pm Tuesday, February 25. It is also available with your WILL Passport on the PBS Video app in honor of Black History Month.

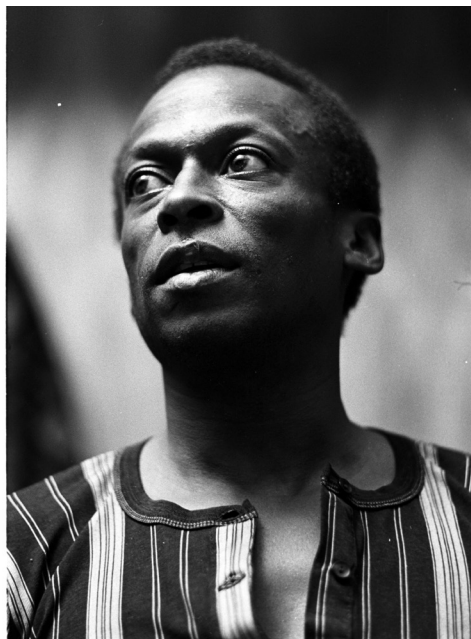

A visionary known for his restless aesthetic, Davis is widely regarded as one of the most innovative, influential, and respected figures in music. With full access to the Miles Davis Estate, the film features never-before-seen footage, including studio outtakes from his recording sessions, rare photos, and new interviews. Quincy Jones, Carlos Santana, Clive Davis, Wayne Shorter, Davis' son Erin Davis and nephew Vince Wilburn, bassist and Davis collaborator Marcus Miller, and Ron Carter are just a few of the luminaries weighing in on the life and career of the cultural icon.

American Masters—Miles Davis: Birth of the Cool takes a hard look at the mythology that surrounds the legend. "The story of Miles Davis—who he was as a man and artist—has often been told as the tale of a drug-addled genius," said Nelson. "You rarely see a portrait of a man that worked hard at honing his craft, a man who deeply studied all forms of music, from Baroque to classical Indian. An elegant man who could render ballads with such tenderness yet hold rage in his heart from the racism he faced throughout his life. He could be romantic and pursue women relentlessly, yet treat them with cruelty upon winning them over. He could be extremely generous, yet rescind that generosity on a whim."

The documentary delves into the six-decade career of the musical genius: from his days as a Juilliard student to the development of his signature sound on recordings with his famous quintet, from his collaborations with Gil Evans to his shifts to new musical paradigms in the 70s and 80s. As the film tracks Davis' boundary-breaking musical triumphs, the meanderings of his complicated personal life are told with intimate reflections from those closest to him. New interviews with friends, fellow musicians, collaborators, and scholars create a full portrait of the complex man. The film, which premiered at the Sundance Film Festival and had a successful limited theatrical run, tells the story of a truly singular talent and unpacks the man behind the horn.

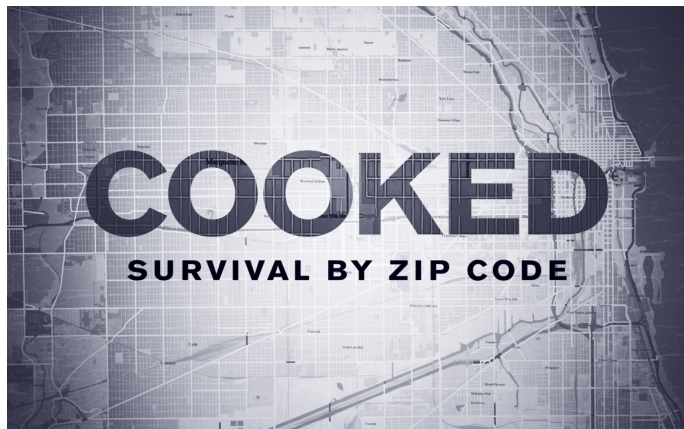

INDEPENDENT LENS

Can science and religion coexist?

Produced by Chicago's 137 Films, We Believe in Dinosaurs tells the story of the building of an enormous, $120 million Noah's Ark at the Creation Museum in rural Williamstown, Kentucky, an exhibit designed to prove the Bible is scientifically and historically accurate. Along with detailing the Ark's preparation, the film follows several Kentuckians: Doug Henderson and his team of artists and designers who create lifelike animals; Dan Phelps, a geologist who blows the whistle on the Ark's hiring practices; David MacMillan, a former creationist and lifetime museum member who blogs critically about beliefs he once held; and atheist activist Jim Helton, co-founder of Tri-State Freethinkers, who leads a protest rally outside the Ark on opening day. As the citizens of Williamstown wait for the economic boon promised by the Ark's founders, creationists spread the gospel of a 6,000 year-old Earth. Airing at 9 pm Monday, February 17, We Believe in Dinosaurs explores the roots of our beliefs.

The politics of crisis in an American city

In July 1995, a heat wave overtook Chicago: high humidity and a layer of heat-retaining pollution drove the heat index up to more than 126 degrees. City roads buckled, rails warped, electric grids failed, thousands became ill and people began to die—by the hundreds. Cooked tells the story of this heat wave, the most traumatic in US history, in which 739

Chicago citizens died in a single week, most of them poor, elderly, and African American. Balancing serious and somber with her respectful, albeit ironic and and signature quirky style, Peabody award-winning filmmaker Judith Helfand explores this drama that, when peeled away, reveals the less newsworthy but long-term crisis of pernicious poverty, economic, and social isolation and racism. Produced by Kartemquin Films in Chicago, , Cooked is a story about life, death, and the politics of crisis in an American city. See the film at 9 pm Monday, February 10 on WILL-TV.

A mother's fight for truth and justice

Always in Season explores the lingering impact of more than a century of lynching African Americans and connects this form of historic racial terrorism to racial violence today. The film centers on the case of Lennon Lacy, an African American teen who was found hanging from a swing set in Bladenboro, North Carolina, on August 29, 2014. Despite inconsistencies in the case, local officials quickly ruled Lennon's death a suicide, but his mother, Claudia, believes Lennon was lynched. Claudia moves from paralyzing grief to leading the fight for justice for her son. The film premieres at 9 pm Monday, February 24.

New podcast airs Sundays on WILL-AM 580

At 5 pm Sundays in February, White Lies tells the story of one of the most significant unsolved murders of the Civil Rights era, and dispels the myths and mistruths that have grown up around the story over the past five decades. In 1965, Rev. James Reeb was murdered in Selma, Alabama. Three men were tried and acquitted, but no one was ever held to account. 50 years later, two journalists from Alabama return to the city where it happened, expose the lies that kept the murder from being solved, and uncover a story about guilt and memory that says as much about America today as it does about the past. Hosted by Morning Edition's Noel King and reported by Alabama journalists Andrew Beck Grace and Chip Brantley, this seven-episode series brings the stories from the groundbreaking investigative podcast to the radio audience.

What secrets do the Earth's poles hold?

NOVA presents an epic adventure through time at the Polar Extremes of our planet at 7 pm Wednesday, February 5. Following a trail of strange fossils found in all the wrong places—beech trees in Antarctica, hippo-like mammals in the Arctic—paleontologist Kirk Johnson uncovers the bizarre history of the poles, from miles-high ice sheets to warm polar forests teeming with life. What caused such dramatic changes at the ends of the Earth? And what controls the dial on Earth's thermostat? Today, the Arctic is warming faster than anywhere else in the world, and Antarctica has locked in its ice enough water to raise sea level by a terrifying 200 feet. The way that the poles respond to a warming climate is one of the greatest wildcards in predicting our climate future. Johnson uses Earth's history, written in stone, as a cipher to decode what is going on at our polar extremes today, and what the future may hold.

June 22, 1938. Though the Great Depression rages and war looms, the eyes of the world are on Yankee Stadium in New York where, beneath threatening skies, German Max Schmeling and American Joe Louis are squaring off for the heavyweight championship of the world. One commentator would call later call it "two minutes and four seconds of murder."

The pressure on each fighter is enormous. Joe Louis is not only fighting for the honor of the country, he is quite literally holding the hopes of all of black America in his fists. For Max

Schmeling, the fight will be a demonstration of Hitler's racial theories, and should the German lose, many fear for what could happen to him. Theirs was a rivalry that would draw in two nations inching closer to war, and take the measure of two men who had been fighting all their lives. American Experience's The Fight explores the famous 1938 heavyweight bout and finds two men who, in the shadow of war, became reluctant symbols of equality and supremacy, democracy and fascism. The film airs at 8 pm Tuesday, February 11.

The rise of an online empire

Jeff Bezos has built a business empire that is without precedent in the history of American capitalism. His power to shape everything from the future of work, commerce, and technology is unrivaled. As politicians and regulators around the world start to consider the global impact of Amazon—and how to reign in Bezos' power—Frontline investigates how he executed a plan to build one of the most influential economic and cultural forces in the world. Amazon Empire: The Rise of Jeff Bezos airs at 8 pm Tuesday, February 18.

Madama Butterfly

In Great Performances at the Met's presentation of Madama Butterfly, Soprano Hui He plays the tragic title role with tenor Bruce Sledge as the naval officer who abandons her in Puccini's classic masterpiece. Pier Giorgio Morandi conducts Anthony Minghella's sweeping production of this tragic love story. The performance airs on WILL-TV at 12 pm Sunday, February 16.

The history of romance

What could be more natural than romance, finding the perfect partner and falling in love? In fact every ingredient in this scenario, so beloved of romantics everywhere, had to be invented. In the three-part series A Very British Romance with Lucy Worsley, she will delve into the history of romance to uncover the forces shaping our very British happily ever after. The series will reveal how even our most intimate thoughts and feelings have been affected by social, political, and cultural ideas.

Lucy Worsley's exploration of three centuries of love's rituals begins in the Georgian age, when the rules of courtship were being rewritten. Traditionally marriage had been as much about business as love. Lucy examines how women in the 18th century started to have an unprecedented degree of romantic freedom, partly due to the cult of "sensibility"—a fashionable vogue for more emotionally-heightened living. The series begins at 7 pm Sunday, February 16.

On pledge drive days with this symbol, program start and end times may vary.

Celebrate Black History Month with song

WILL-TV presents Chris Vallillo's Oh Freedom!

Songs of the Civil Rights Movement at 12 pm Sunday, February 23, created by Gin Ridge Music.

In this one-hour performance program, award-winning roots musician/folklorist Chris Vallillo (featured in Illinois Public Media's upcoming documentary Illinois Country) is joined on stage by the Western Illinois University Singers under the direction of Dr. James Stegall for an moving performance of his show Oh Freedom! Songs of the Civil Rights Movement.

Vallillo's multi-instrumentalist talents are at the heart of the performance; a rich blend of roots-based acoustic and electric guitars, slide guitars, and mandolin, beautifully performed, but it's the power of the 42-voice choir that makes this such a remarkable experience.

The story of the Civil Rights Movement has been described as one of the greatest singing movements that this country has ever experienced. From the Freedom Riders to the demonstrators on the bridge in Selma on Bloody Sunday to the March on Washington, both old and new "Freedom Songs" would become the backbone of the nonviolent civil disobedience movement lead by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The power of this music would resonate through the movement and be the glue that held it together.

The show Oh Freedom! features 11 of the pivotal songs that inspired and sustained this landmark movement. Intermixed with the music, Vallillo presents first-hand accounts of the historic struggle and discusses the impact of music to this most important social cause.

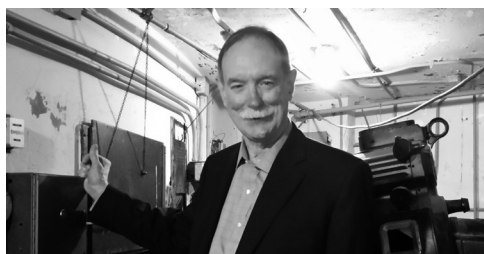

Eunice Alpasan is latest Endres intern

In 2017, University of Illinois alumni Robert O. Endres made a generous gift to Illinois Public Media to establish the Endres Internship. Endres is a 1962 College of Media graduate with fond memories of working at WILL Master Control as a student in the Broadcasting program at the University of Illinois. His gift guarantees that students will continue to gain hands-on experience and education that will aid in their future journalistic endeavours.

Eunice Alpasan is the 2019 Endres Intern. Through this internship, she will continue her work with The 21st team and the newsroom, while also attending the University of Illinois as a journalism student.

Congratulations Eunice, and thank you again to Mr. Endres for his continued support of Illinois Public Media.

Travel to Belize for a week in November!

On November 6-13, 2020, join fellow Friends of WILL for a tour that combines culture, nature, history, science and fun. This trip will take our unique, easy-paced itinerary approach to English-speaking Belize, which is known as the Jewel of Central America.

We'll explore the lovely sea side village of Hopkins, take a boat ride to tour the Smithsonian's Caribbean Coral Reef Ecosystem program at Carrie Bow Cay Research Field Station, explore the tropical jungle, visit Mayan ruins, and visit the Green Iguana Conservation Project. Plus, you will have opportunities to choose extra excursions such as snorkeling, birdwatching, a day trip to Tikal in Guatemala, fishing, touring a chocolate farm, and much more.

On this WILL custom tour, we will be staying three nights at two beautiful small eco-resorts. This allows you more free time than the average tours. Best of all is traveling with other Friends of WILL who share a kinship from the first day. All meals are included at the resorts.

Group size is limited and tours fill up quickly! Don't delay in reserving your seat now!

For more information, call John Steinbacher at 217-300-5742 (direct line), or to make a reservation, call Judy McElfresh at Tour Group Planners, 217-422-5002.

Illinois Public Media welcomes Dana Cronin

Dana Cronin is the new agriculture reporter for Illinois Public Media. Cronin is a native of northern California and grew up in the Napa Valley. She went to Colorado College where she majored in environmental science and minored in journalism and Spanish.

Cronin is no stranger to public media. While in school, she reported for the college's public media station 91.5 KRCC, where she worked on all kinds of stories, including a three-part environmental series on the future of the Arkansas River. After graduation, Cronin reported for her home public media station KQED in San Francisco. She then spent the last two years at NPR headquarters in Washington, DC, producing content for news shows including Weekend Edition and All Things Considered.

New to the Midwest, Cronin is really excited to get to know the people and especially the farmers of Illinois. "I'm passionate about reporting on water issues and climate change, and I love to tell the occasional quirky story." In her spare time, she likes to play the guitar.

Cronin will report for the ag beat for the WILL Newsroom and the Illinois Newsroom. She will also work with the Harvest Public Media collaboration, a network of reporters and partner stations throughout the Midwest and Plains, of which WILL and Illinois Newsroom are full partners.

Welcome to WILL, Dana!
