march 2017 Volume XLIV, Number 9

This year, our fine University celebrates its 150th anniversary. This is a huge accomplishment for what began as the Illinois Industrial University, surrounded by cornfields and geared to agricultural and industrial classes.

While WILL is still at the young age of 95, we are proud to be part of this institution. It's a pleasure for us to bring to you the amazing work that happens every day on campus. While our format has expanded from our original AM radio station to include FM, TV, and web, our goal has remained constant: to inform the public.

To help celebrate the sesquicentennial, this month's Patterns features some of our great work documenting our University's history. Pages 18-19 showcase our TV specials that include two outstanding alumni, Roger Ebert and Walter Burlley Griffin; faculty member Dan Perrino, whose music calmed the civil unrest on campus in the 1960s; and Memorial Stadium, the field that first introduced the world to Red Grange.

On page 17, you can read about the history of our long-running podcast Environmental Almanac, where Rob Kanter connects University research with our local wildlife and land, and features Rob's excellent photography skills.

The last 150 years has taught us that the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign can persevere through the hard times and will remain unstoppable. And Illinois Public Media will be right there with it, advancing our technologies to constantly cover its groundbreaking research, teaching, and impact on the world over.

Born Virginia Patterson Hensley in Winchester, Virginia, Patsy Cline (September 8, 1932-March 5, 1963) defined modern country music by using her singular talent and heart-wrenching emotional depth to break down barriers of gender, class, and genre. In her music and her life, she set a standard of authenticity toward which artists still strive. After years of hard work to overcome industry gender biases and her own personal hardships and professional missteps, she achieved success, only to have it punctured by uncanny premonitions and her untimely death at age 30. The new documentary American Masters: Patsy Cline premieres nationwide at 7:30 pm Friday, March 10 during Women's History Month as part of the 31st season of THIRTEEN's American Masters series. 2017 marks the 85th anniversary of Cline's birth.

▲ Inset: Mickey Guyton, an up-and-coming country singer, performed Cline's classic "Crazy" as part of the In Performance at the White House series.

Narrated by Rosanne Cash, American Masters: Patsy Cline examines the roots of Cline's impact in both personal and cultural terms to illuminate how she arrived at a pivotal moment in the evolution of American culture and, with Decca Records producer Owen Bradley, synthesized country, pop, and rock in a new way to create the Nashville Sound. With exclusive access to the Cline estate, the film features rare performances of such Cline classics as "Walkin' After Midnight," "Three Cigarettes in an Ashtray," "Come On In," "I Fall to Pieces," "Crazy," "You Made Me Love You," and more. The documentary also features exclusive archival interviews with Cline's contemporaries and new interviews with a wide range of artists who have been influenced by Cline: LeAnn Rimes, Kacey Musgraves, Rhiannon Giddens, Wanda Jackson, Bill Anderson, Beverly D'Angelo, Callie Khouri, Reba McEntire, Mickey Guyton, and more.

Our Great Historian

Join host Tom Hanks for a celebration of filmmaker Ken Burns, whose nearly four-decade career has resulted in some of the most acclaimed historical documentaries ever made. Featuring interviews with Henry Louis Gates, Jr., Doris Kearns Goodwin, George Lucas, Yo-Yo Ma, Wynton Marsalis, Meryl Streep, Sam Waterston, and others, this heartfelt tribute explores the tremendous depth and breadth of Burns' work and provides an exclusive look at The Vietnam War, a new 10-part, 18-hour documentary film series directed by Burns and Lynn Novick that premieres on PBS in September 2017. Ken Burns: America's Storyteller premieres at 7 pm Tuesday, March 7.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, Burns' passion for telling America's stories is evident in his choice of subjects, from American icons (Mark Twain, Frank Lloyd Wright, Jackie Robinson, The Roosevelts) to American pastimes (baseball, jazz, and the National Parks), from American landmarks (the Brooklyn Bridge and the Statue of Liberty) to the country's most momentous historical events (the Civil War, the Dust Bowl, Prohibition, and World War II). Since the Academy Award-nominated Brooklyn Bridge in 1981, productions by Burns have won 15 Emmy Awards and two Oscar nominations, and Burns himself has been the recipient of a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences.

Burns has been aptly described as "America's storyteller." Over the course of almost 40 years, he has carried on a deep and probing conversation with Americans about themselves and their country, its past and its future. Perhaps more than anyone else, he has elevated documentary filmmaking to an art form and made American history come alive.

The tribute also includes an extended interview with Burns, offering a behind-the-scenes look at the making of his films and providing fascinating insights into his thought process, philosophy, and creative methods. Filled with clips, photographs, outtakes, and "making of" footage, Ken Burns: America's Storyteller will remind viewers once again of the originality and craft behind the "Ken Burns effect."

A member of the country club

Filmed and recorded in an intimate setting at the historic Franklin Theatre in Franklin, Tennessee, this new concert special spotlights multi-award winning artist and country music hit-maker Travis Tritt's distinctively soulful voice and his exceptional guitar prowess. Travis Tritt: A Man And His Guitar airs at 8:30 pm Tuesday, March 7.

The concert features Tritt at his best, performing a fresh take on some of his biggest hits, including "Help Me Hold On," "Anymore," and "Best of Intentions," in a stripped down, pure form. Previously unreleased renditions of "Come And Go Blues" and "Pickin' At It" are also included in the program.

In this performance, Tritt acknowledges and pays tribute to artists he grew up admiring and those who were influential to him with personal stories and anecdotes from his long career. Select acoustic numbers and humorous moments between Tritt and his guests Marty Stuart and James Otto are also highlighted.

Mr. Jones

Ladies and gentlemen, don't miss the incomparable Tom Jones as he takes the stage to perform repertoire from across his long and illustrious career. This exclusive Soundstage performance features songs from Jones' recent critically-acclaimed albums as well as a selection of his iconic hits that take the audience on a musical journey across the eras and musical spectrum. Over his 50-year career, Tom Jones has sold more than 100 million records and is a Grammy and BRIT Award winner. Along with sustaining his popularity as a live performer and recording artist for five decades, Jones has garnered the best reviews of his career for his most recent albums, Long Lost Suitcase, Spirit in the Room, and Praise & Blame. Joining Jones on WTTW's Grainger Studio stage is renowned bluegrass singer-songwriter, 27-time Grammy winner, and CU native Alison Krauss (left). Tom Jones: A Soundstage Special premieres at 8:30 pm Wednesday, March 8.

The end of the road

Located in an isolated and impoverished Mojave Desert community, Black Rock Continuation High School is one of California's alternative schools for at-risk students. Every student there has fallen so far behind that they have little hope of earning a diploma at a traditional high school—Black Rock is their last chance. But tireless Principal Vonda Viland and the teachers at Black Rock are on a mission to realize the potential of students who were deemed lost causes by the system. Powerful and inspiring, Independent Lens: *The Bad Kids at 9 pm Monday, March 20 follows Viland and her staff over a year as they coach at-risk teens with compassion, respect, and a seemingly endless supply of patience.

Charlotte, Emily, and Anne Brontë face a bleak future, with their father half-blind and troubled brother Branwell in decline. As their situation worsens, Charlotte sees that writing could offer a way out. Learn the extraordinary story of how, against all odds, the famous literary trio had their genius for writing romantic novels recognized in a male-dominated 19th-century world. Masterpiece Classic presents To Walk Invisible: The Brontë Sisters at 8 pm Sunday, March 26.

A night of romance

Gustavo Dudamel accents the colors, rhythms, and passion of music by leading composers from Argentina in this invigorating evening under the stars on Dudamel Conducts Tangos Under the Stars with the LA Phil, recorded at the Hollywood Bowl in August, coming to Great Performances at 8 pm Friday, March 31.

“Temperatures cooled off last night but the music-making remained hot as Gustavo Dudamel began his final week this summer at Hollywood Bowl,” reported Robert D. Thomas of the Southern California News Group the day after the concert.

With guitarist Angel Romero, bandoneon player Seth Asarnow, and dancers from Tango Buenos Aires, maestro Dudamel leads the Los Angeles Philharmonic in works by the Astor Piazzolla, once described by Stephen Holden in The New York Times as “the world’s foremost composer of tango music.”

Riding at night, the Ovarian Psycho-Cycle Brigade is an unapologetic crew of women of color who cruise up and down the storied streets of Boyle Heights, East Los Angeles, and Lincoln Heights, calling out to new riders to join them on a journey through the neighborhood. Since its formation in the summer of 2011 by activist, poet M.C., and single mother Xela de la X, the Ovas have made it their mission to cycle for the purpose of healing, reclaiming their neighborhoods, and creating safer streets for women on the Eastside. The film Ovarian Psychos by Independent Lens, airing at 9 pm Monday, March 27, rides along with them, exploring the impact of the group's brand of feminism on neighborhood women and communities as they confront injustice, racism, and violence.

A team of archaeologists is mapping the underwater ruins of Baiae, an ancient Roman city, piecing together what life was like in this playground for the rich. There were vast villas and elaborate spas, and barges floating in the bay were the site of raucous parties. No expense was spared to create a wonderland. Baiae was also the site of some of the most treacherous political dealings of ancient Rome, with Emperor Nero and his enemies hatching deadly plots against each other. And then, the city sank into the ocean, to be forgotten in history until now. What made Baiae such a special place? And what happened to it? Explore this fascinating city on Secrets of the Dead at 9 pm Wednesday, March 29.

What happens in Baiae...

Wars never really end...

Civilians worldwide are increasingly the targets of war crimes. The unprecedented series Dead Reckoning: War and Justice examines the evolution of postwar justice in investigating genocide, ethnic cleansing, and other atrocities; and in prosecuting the perpetrators. All three episodes air beginning at 7 pm Tuesday, March 28.

The General's Ghost

See how war crimes by Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan spur creation of international justice laws.

The Blind Eye

Learn about the obstruction of postwar justice during the Cold War.

In Our Time

See how postwar justice is revitalized but limited in confronting rising civilian tolls.

In summer 2004, two U of I professors approached Rob Kanter with an idea: would he like to collaborate with them to broaden the public reach of U of I faculty members with interests in environmental topics through a radio show on WILL-AM 580?

The proposition intrigued Kanter, then a part-time lecturer in the English department while also acting as primary caregiver to his two kids. But it was a time of transition, as his youngest just started school, and Kanter was eager to pursue his environmental interests.

They soon had a plan. Kanter would research and write segments about the environmental work of U of I faculty members and voice them himself, creating an efficient process and a consistent product. He also insisted on expanding the topics covered to link the scientific research within a broader suite of environmental concerns. A month later, funding was secured, and thus began Environmental Almanac.

Now on the air for 13 years, Kanter has created approximately 400 original installments of the show for radio and podcast. In spring 2007, segments began running as columns in the Sunday edition of the Champaign News-Gazette, and this is when Kanter began to use his own photography for the segments.

Kanter takes the work seriously, as he provides an important bridge between advanced research by academics to the masses across the state. He's tagged along with geologists to collect from the Fithian Illite, ridden with students using next-generation, truck-mounted Doppler radar in the field, and called listeners to action to benefit the environment.

But Environmental Almanac's most important objective is "encouraging people to engage with the natural world, which can sometimes mean just appreciating the plants and animals they might encounter on a daily basis," said Kanter. His public outreach includes speaking engagements with audiences big and small, kindergartners and Rotary members. He's also expanded segments into articles for Illinois Audobon and The Illinois Steward.

"I feel extremely fortunate to have had the support to do this series for so long, and more fortunate still that I have been able to extend the work I do with Environmental Almanac through my teaching in the School of Earth, Society, and Environment."

Music Man Dan

In Champaign-Urbana, the 1960s protest era left behind more than broken glass and memories of fists raised in anger. In 1969, music professor Dan Perrino, along with other professors and grad students, staged an impromptu Dixieland jazz concert at the Illini Union, where students gathered in the South Lounge to castigate the administrations on campus and in Washington. When the group performed, the room filled with people, and for once they weren't yelling at each other. Thus, the Medicare 7, 8 or 9 Dixieland jazz band was formed, and went on to become a treasured part of the community for 30 years, playing more than 2,000 performances all over Illinois and in more than 35 states.

Perrino died in 2012, and in 2013 his friends and colleagues gathered to reflect on his legacy and that of the musical group he founded.

The WILL-TV special Medicare Man: Remembering Dan Perrino and Medicare 7, 8 or 9 airs at 7 pm Saturday, March 11. The film pays tribute to Dan Perrino and the band he founded, looking back at the group's history with concert footage, interviews with band members, archival photos, and excerpts of previously taped interviews with Perrino.

The 90-minute program includes both interviews and musical footage from previous WILL-TV specials produced between 1982 and 2005. Songs performed by Medicare in the program include "Tailgate Ramble," "Wolverine Blues," "I Can't Get Started With You," "I Wish I Was in Peoria," "Sugar Blues," "Tin Roof Blues," "Come Sunday," and "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Where the magic happens

Football legends...architectural pioneers...war heroes...and steadfast Illini spirit. The surprising history of Memorial Stadium. The memories built in the 87 years since the stadium opened—from the Galloping Ghost who emerged on dedication day, to crucial wins and losses, to the feats of players with names like Butkus, Grabowski, and Halas—have made it a place of legend. WILL-TV looks at the legends and the history that have emerged within the limestone columns, and the spirit that is reawakened every game day at Memorial Stadium. Watch Memorial Stadium: True Illini Spirit at 9:40 pm Saturday, March 11.

"I'll see you at the movies"

Illinois Public Media and the College of Media present Ebertfest 2016: Center of the Universe at 11 pm Saturday, March 11. This thirty-minute companion documentary covers the life and legacy of Roger Ebert as well as the history of the festival.

Ebert often talked and wrote with great affection about his hometowns of Urbana-Champaign, Illinois. He didn't just grow up here; he went to Urbana High School and then to the University of Illinois before leaving to pursue his career in Chicago. Decades later, Ebert and his wife, Chaz Ebert, came together with other partners to bring Roger Ebert's Film Festival to the "center of the universe." 18 festivals later, even after his passing in 2013, there are no signs of Ebertfest going anywhere else.

At the heart of the film are powerful, first-person accounts of both Ebert and the festival he created by those who knew him and the event best. Interviewees include critics Richard Roeper and Michael Phillips; Assistant Festival Director Casey Ludwig; Director of the Virginia Theatre Steven Bentz; and other festival participants and friends.

Ebert's wife, Ebertfest co-founder/co-producer Chaz Ebert is also featured in the program.

Blueprints and love

At 8:20 pm Saturday, March 11, watch the classic documentary Walter Burley Griffin: In His Own Way. The story features both Griffin's architectural career and his wonderful support from his wife Marion. Producer Alison Davis said, "It is the story of a woman who put her husband's career in front of her own talents. It is the story of making great choices in life when there is no guarantee of the outcome. And it is also the story of standing by your principles regardless of the repercussions."

Cline boldly bucked female conventions of the 1950s with her fashion sense, her decision to divorce, her support of fellow female artists, and her assertive ambition to get opportunities equal to those of her male Nashville peers, such as the same kind of headliner billing and radio airplay, particularly after breaking free of her unfavorable contract with Four Star Records. Six years after her national breakthrough on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts (CBS, 1957), she died in a plane crash returning home from a benefit performance.

Her many posthumous honors include being the first solo female performer to be inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame, a Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award, and a US postage stamp. She was also portrayed in the Oscar-winning feature film Coal Miner's Daughter (1980) by Beverly D'Angelo and in Sweet Dreams (1985) by Jessica Lange.

"It's been such a privilege to tell the story of Patsy Cline. For me, her story exceeds her musical accomplishments. She is in a rare class of women who simply set out to achieve their dreams and through those efforts left an indelible mark," said Emmy-nominated director and producer Barbara J. Hall (Song by Song, Titanic: Band of Courage).

"This film goes beyond the juke-box classics to show how Patsy Cline was really a gutsy pioneer," said Michael Kantor, American Masters series executive producer.
