May 2022 Volume XLVII, Number 11

We had initially planned to have several in-person events this year as part of our 100th anniversary, but we have adjusted our plans due to the ongoing pandemic. While it may not be the same as sharing the same room, I have truly enjoyed these revelatory and engaging conversations we had with Rick Steves and Judy Woodruff via Zoom. I know many of you did too based on the very positive feedback we received.

An unexpected bonus of our virtual events is they offer a chance for many of you to participate who could not have attended in-person events. So moving forward we plan to have a mix of in-person and virtual event opportunities.

This month, we have our fourth installment of our News, Brews, and Beatz series on May 9, focusing on solution-based conversations around addressing violence in the Champaign-Urbana community. (See article on page 20.) If you have not attended one of these dynamic events yet, I encourage you to do so. And in keeping with our goal of access for all, we are offering you the opportunity to attend in person or to engage remotely through Facebook Live.

An important part of our mission at Illinois Public Media is to bring members of our community together for a variety of events that offer public engagement opportunities. Our job is to bring all of you into the conversations, and we remain committed to making this happen in as many ways as possible.

Merry Wives, May 20

COVER STORY

‘Broadway’s Best’ on Great Performances

This month, Great Performances returns with its fifth annual “Broadway’s Best” lineup Fridays at 8 pm.

The curtain is raised on May 13 with the West End revival of Cole Porter’s classic musical Anything Goes, featuring Tony Award-winners Sutton Foster and Robert Lindsay. Telling the tale of romance aboard the SS American, the London production features timeless hits, including “I Get A Kick Out of You,” “You’re the Top,” and “Anything Goes.”

On May 20, Merry Wives is featured. Recorded live from the Delacorte Theater, it is adapted from Shakespeare’s comedic spinoff “The Merry Wives of Windsor.” A New York story about tricks of the heart, this farce tells the story of the charlatan Falstaff and the wily wives who outwit him in a celebration of Black joy, laughter, and vitality.

Keeping Company with Sondheim on Great Performances is featured May 27. Filmed over two years, this documentary takes an exclusive inside look at Tony Award-winning director Marianne Elliott’s creative process of bringing a reimaged gender-swapped production of Stephen Sondheim and George Furth’s musical “Company” to Broadway during the COVID-19 pandemic. It features rehearsal and performance footage.

All-star tribute honors Lionel Richie

Luke Bryan is one of the guest artists paying tribute to Lionel Richie.

Pop music icon Lionel Richie received the Gershwin Prize at an all-star tribute concert in Washington, D.C., in March. That concert, Lionel Richie: The Library of Congress Gershwin Prize for Popular Song, airs at 8 pm Tuesday, May 17.

A songwriting superstar, Richie is known for his mega-hits such as “Lady,” “All Night Long,” “Hello,” “Dancing on the Ceiling,” and many others. He also co-wrote “We Are the World” for USA for Africa, a historically important pop song.

“In so many ways, this national honor was made for Lionel Richie whose music has entertained and inspired us — and helped strengthen our global connections,” said Librarian of Congress Carla Hayden. “Lionel Richie’s unforgettable work has shown us that music can bring us together.”

The cost of academic excellence

Independent Lens presents Try Harder! at 9 pm Monday, May 2. It chronicles the life of students at San Francisco's Lowell High School, one of the best public schools in the country, which draws high achievers from across the city into a fiercely competitive universe. With a majority Asian American student body, high-achieving seniors share their dreams and anxieties about getting into a top university. But is college worth the grind?

More than an Olympic athlete

American Masters explores the life and legacy of surfing legend Duke Kahanamoku in Waterman – Duke: Spirit of Aloha airing at 8 pm Tuesday, May 10. Narrated by Jason Momoa, discover the inspiring story and considerable impact of the five-time Olympic medalist, who while shattering swimming records and globalizing surfing, was also overcoming racism in a lifetime of personal challenges.

The Paragon Agency

Fighting the plague and racism

More than 100 years before the deadly COVID-19 pandemic set off a nationwide wave of fear and anti-Asian sentiment, an outbreak of bubonic plague in San Francisco's Chinatown unleashed a similar crisis.

American Experience tells the gripping story of the desperate race against time to save San Francisco and the nation in Plague at the Golden Gate at 8 pm Tuesday, May 24.

Joining together to fight racism

Explore the fight against Asian American hate following the March 2021 mass shootings at three spas in Atlanta. Rising Against Asian Hate: One Day in March chronicles how the Asian American community came together to fight back against hate. Offering a conversation about race, class, and gender, the film takes a deep dive into this critical moment of racial reckoning, exploring the struggles and triumphs, progress and setbacks, discrimination, and achievements of AAPI communities. Rising Against Asian Hate: One Day in March airs at 8 pm Tuesday, May 31.

SOCIAL JUSTICE LEARNING

Explore the AAPI experience first-hand

In observance of Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month, we encourage everyone to explore our Social Justice Learning digital space, in particular a former lesson focused on the “AAPI Experience.”

At the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, Asian, Asian American, and Pacific Islander people experienced a dramatic rise in discrimination. But the unfortunate truth is that racial scapegoating and racist, xenophobic, and violent acts toward the AAPI communities are nothing new.

America's anti-Asian rhetoric can be seen and felt throughout history. The Social Justice Learning lesson “The AAPI Experience” focuses on the diversity, the accomplishments, and the experiences of Asian, Asian American, and Pacific Islander people.

The goal of any social justice learning should be to achieve a better understanding of others' experiences with the hopes of achieving a more equitable and quality society for all peoples while also meeting their needs.

Divided into sections for early childhood, adolescents, and adults, each area features videos, audio, and text to facilitate a variety of learning styles. We believe by beginning with our littlest ones and continuing throughout adulthood, we can ensure a lifelong impact.

We highly encourage you to visit will.illinois.edu/socialjusticelearning regularly to begin or continue your growth in these social justice areas.

DOC-U-MONDAY

Mothers take a pilgrimage of remembrance

In celebration of WILL's centennial year, we are revisiting some of our most popular and acclaimed locally produced documentaries. This month, as part of our special Memorial Day programming, our Doc-u-Monday selection is Gold Star Mothers: Pilgrimage of Remembrance, which airs at 8 pm Monday, May 30.

For 6,000 women whose sons or husbands were lost in World War I and buried in foreign graves, a pilgrimage to see their loved one's final resting place brought a measure of comfort. In the 1930s, the government took thousands of them on trips across the ocean to visit cemeteries in Europe. WILL-TV's Gold Star Mothers: Pilgrimage of Remembrance tells the story of the emotional Gold Star journeys that, for many women, involved their first travel outside their own communities. The documentary also follows some of today's Gold Star Mothers, who lost sons in Vietnam, as they make similar pilgrimages to see where their loved ones died.

A look at criminal justice reform

In Milwaukee, a 15-year-old attempting to carjack law student Claude Motley shot him in the face. Motley's life was upended, yet he still found himself torn between punishment and mercy. Independent Lens presents When Claude Got Shot at 9 pm Monday, May 9.

In addition, Frontline presents Police on Trial at 9 pm Tuesday, May 31. A look into the Minneapolis police following the death of George Floyd includes protests, the trial of Derek Chauvin, and the struggle for accountability.

Worsley explores new mysteries

Lucy Worsley returns in a new series as she delves into some of the most dramatic chapters in British history in Lucy Worsley Investigates. She uncovers forgotten witnesses, re-examines old evidence, and follows new clues. In Princes in the Tower, airing at 7 pm Sunday, May 15, Worsley uncovers the story of the two boys whose disappearance in 1483 has led to centuries of mystery and speculation. In The Madness of King George, 7 pm Sunday, May 22, Worsley explores how George III's mental illness changed Britain. She uncovers royal papers and explores how the assassination attempt on his life by a mentally ill subject changed psychiatry forever.

Remembering those who died in service to our country

For over three decades, the National Memorial Day Concert has brought us together as one family of Americans to pay tribute to the service and sacrifice of our men and women in uniform, their families at home, and all those who have given their lives for our country. National Memorial Day Concert 2022, airing at 7 pm Sunday, May 29, also will honor the memory and legacy of General Colin L. Powell, USA (Ret).

The queen up-close

Britain and the world are celebrating Queen Elizabeth II, the first British Monarch to celebrate a Platinum Jubilee, which marks 70 years of service.

Using archival footage and personal accounts, The Queen and her Prime Ministers, airing at 9:30 pm Friday, May 27, shows how the Queen has accompanied her prime ministers through their time in office.

The Queen: Anthology – A Life on Film, airing at 10 pm Friday, May 20, is a unique collection of visual stories chronicling the life of Queen Elizabeth II — from her birth and her days as a young queen in waiting, to her coronation, major life events, and milestones.

A glimpse of the Ice Age

Thousands of prehistoric footprints in New Mexico's White Sands National Park capture moments when Ice Age humans crossed paths with enormous ground sloths and mammoths. What can this new evidence reveal about the peopling of the Americas? NOVA explores this fascinating discovery at 8 pm Wednesday, May 25, on Ice Age Footprints.

MASTERPIECE presents new thriller

Music on WILL

By Katie Buzard

Music has always been an important fixture of WILL programming, from the early days when WILL had its own in-house orchestra to the 24-hour classical music service we enjoy today on WILL-FM.

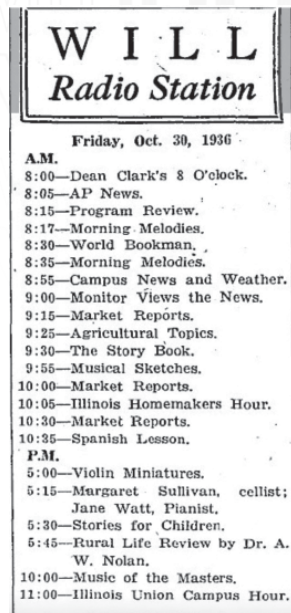

Music served multiple functions during WILL's first two decades on air. It was a way for the University to project a certain image of the institution — one that was cultured and high-minded — to those who tuned in across the country. It also was a way to draw listeners in so that they would be enticed to listen to the educational content. Plus, music was simply a convenient method of filling airtime for the fledgling station.

When WILL (then WRM or We Reach Millions) first came on air on April 6, 1922, the first half-hour broadcast did not include music. However, the next week's program featured live singing with selections from the musical comedy "Tea Time in Tibet," by William Donahue. This was groundbreaking, as the Daily Illini wrote, "No other student musical production in America has been given by radio, according to L.G. Hunt, '22, manager of the opera."

Recitals by students and faculty members from the School of Music were a fixture of early programming on WRM, made possible by the installation of underground cables connecting Smith Memorial Hall to the Electrical Engineering Lab. The first recital broadcast from Smith Hall was given by violin professor Manoah Leide on Dec. 7, 1922, featuring music by Swedish composer Valborg Aulin and Polish composer Henryk Wieniawski. The installation of underground cables to other campus buildings not only facilitated the broadcast of classroom lectures that were at the heart of WRM's educational programming, but they also enabled the transmission of live concerts by university ensembles such as the Men and Women's Glee Clubs, the Choral Society, the Symphony Orchestra, and Illinois' many bands.

Such musical programming proved popular to audiences far and wide. On Nov. 21, 1923, the Daily Illini wrote that listeners from across the country had sent letters of appreciation to WRM for its broadcasting, particularly citing its coverage of Illini football games, lectures, and music recitals. The article concludes, "Some have said that the University's music comes in stronger than that of many of the large commercial stations and that the selections played are liked by everyone."

Celebrating a century of making waves

April 6, 2022, marked 100 years of WILL-AM, the oldest component of Illinois Public Media and one of the first radio stations in the country. We commemorated the occasion with a ceremony at Campbell Hall with some longtime Friends of WILL and campus partners. The day's events included remarks from University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign Chancellor Robert Jones and a special performance by the Marching Illini.

We also unveiled the WILL 100 artifacts exhibit in our lobby, displaying a collection of broadcast equipment from the last century. This exhibit, now open to the public through the end of the year, revisits some of the technological advances, both here at WILL and within the world of broadcast and electrical engineering at large.

In addition, it was declared "Illinois Public Media Day," with a statewide proclamation by Gov. JB Pritzker and a joint proclamation by Urbana Mayor Diane Marlin and Champaign Mayor Deborah Frank Feinen. State Rep. Carol Ammons and State Sen. Scott Bennett also got official recognition from the Illinois House of Representatives and the Illinois Senate.

A FANFARE

From this station's earliest days, a core part of our mission has been to share beautiful music and art with our community, beginning with the WILL Sinfonietta in the 1930s, extending to what you know and love about our classical service today. A fanfare felt like a fitting addition to our 100th festivities, and Illinois Public Media was excited to work with local composer Randall Reyman, Millikin University's director of jazz who has an impressive resume of classical music and jazz performances.

In March, we welcomed Reyman and a group of brass musicians — all University of Illinois and Eastern Illinois University faculty members — into our TV studio to record the new composition. We were delighted to be joined by a small group of some of our nearest and dearest friends to mark the occasion and bask in the beauty of a live performance together. Stay tuned for information about our broadcast debut of this special performance with behind the scenes video.

Musicians: Jenny Brown, assistant professor of trumpet at Eastern Illinois University; Charles Daval, professor of trumpet at Illinois; Bernhard Scully, associate professor of horn at Illinois; James Pugh, professor of jazz performance at Illinois (trombone); and Scott Tegge, adjunct lecturer of tuba and euphonium at Illinois.

SHARE YOUR STORY

Our 100th anniversary is more than a date; it is a once in a lifetime opportunity to share WILL's amazing story with everyone. We hope you'll join us in celebrating this centennial by sharing your own WILL stories and memories at will.illinois.edu/will100/shareyourstory.

"I knew nothing of WILL until I started watching 'Mid-American Gardener' many years ago on WYCC in Chicago. Since then I have watched weekly, and about eight or 10 years ago I traveled to Champaign-Urbana to participate in a garden center tour led by Dianne Noland by bus. Now, I watch several programs on WILL, and I listen to WILL radio programs via the internet. You can't have too much PBS."

The event is the fourth in an ongoing series of quarterly community conversations around different aspects of the gun violence crisis going on in our community — and communities across the country — and what individuals and community groups are doing to combat it.

"The News, Brews, and Beatz gatherings have been enlightening," Hardwick said. "The panelists have informed us about how a lack of mental health services, support for schools, and places for young people in Champaign-Urbana all play a role in the deadly violence we're seeing. I'm honored that Illinois Public Media is playing a role in these important discussions."

Before and after the conversation, people can listen to classic R&B and hip-hop with Dj-I.c.Dre' from TableFunk Muzik Group.

Farmers get guidance at annual ag meeting

Farmers gathered at the annual Spring Outlook meeting (formerly All Day Ag Outlook) to get a sense of what's to come for the growing season. Illinois Public Media partnered with the farmdoc team from the University of Illinois department of agricultural and consumer economics for its March 8 meeting at the Beef House in Covington, Indiana.

"The event always anchors farm-related decisions from what crops to plant and when to market to how world events are influencing commodity exports," said organizer and host Todd Gleason, ag information producer at IPM and a farm broadcaster for University of Illinois Extension. "This year focused on high prices, acreage shifts, exports, and supply chain issues."

Illinois Public Media has hosted the event since 1991.

The Closing Market Report airs each weekday at 2:06 pm.

Nearly 200 attended people this year's Spring Outlook.
