A close-up, high-angle photograph of a banjo and a violin, both rendered in a monochromatic, light purple tone against a darker purple background. The banjo is in the foreground, with its neck and headstock visible, while the violin is positioned behind it, showing its body and f-hole. The text 'THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL' is overlaid on the lower right portion of the instruments.

August 2020 Volume XLVIII, Number 2

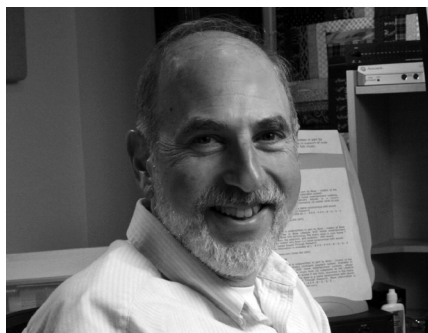

This August, WILL continues to adapt to the COVID-19 crisis, as our former plans for the month have morphed. Previously planned live studio concerts for Illinois Country are now at-home videos from Illinois musicians, widely shared on social media and airing on WILL-TV. Mid-American Gardener "In the Garden" segments are now gardening advice delivered from the homes of our expert gardeners. And coverage of the Democratic and Republican conventions will now be done at a distance from our newsroom instead of the convention floor.

We also got lucky. We asked six central Illinoisans to record what "home life" was like for them, just as our state's stay at home orders were put in place. Senior director Sarah Edwards will continue to film different local perspectives for upcoming documentaries.

Meanwhile, WILL's Illinois Newsroom reporters share stories of educators, education systems, and parents as they manage new mandates to potentially go back to school. Our Education and Outreach department created Facebook Live Q & A events to give central Illinoisans direct access to policymakers, educators, and mental health and healthcare providers.

As PBS Newshour and NPR provide perspective on what's happening in our nation and around the world, I'm so proud your WILL stations are here to contribute local stories. Thank you for your support. While our sense of "together" is different than usual, our sense of who we are is sustained by public media stations like WILL.

Warren steps down as longtime host

The Midnight Special, the long-running radio home for “folk music and farce, show tunes and satire, madness and escape,” will continue from 7-9 pm Saturday nights on WILL-FM, but without its longtime host. Rich Warren is stepping down later this summer, to be succeeded by Marilyn Rea Beyer.

“She’s professional, she’s brilliant,” says Warren of Beyer, a Chicago area native who hosted folk music programs for several years at WUMB in Boston. “She gets the music, I think in the way that I get the music.”

The 70-year-old Warren says he’s chosen to retire from the program while he’s healthy enough to enjoy himself in retirement, and still in top form on the air.

“I’m very healthy at the moment,” said Warren, “and I want to leave with people saying, ‘Rich left at the right time.’”

Future comedian/director Mike Nichols launched The Midnight Special in 1953 at Chicago classical station WFMT, and set its memorable mix of folk music, show tunes, and comedy, which has continued under successive hosts.

“It wasn’t ever boring, it was always something new,” said Warren of the program he first heard while a teenager. “And you could take folk music and put it in a whole new setting, and give it a whole new atmosphere.”

Warren, a longtime WFMT staff member, became one of The Midnight Special’s alternating hosts in 1983, then its sole host, continuing to work on the show even after moving from the Chicago area to Champaign County. He eventually built a home studio to produce the program.

Rich Warren’s final broadcast as host of The Midnight Special is set for the end of August on the national version of the show that airs on WILL-FM.

Endeavour is back

In Season 7, Endeavour and his colleagues enter a new decade and era of change. Opening on New Year's Eve 1969, normal order has been resumed and the team reunited at Castle Gate CID, with Chief Superintendent Bright back in charge. However, the events of the past year have left their mark: old friendships will be challenged, and new relationships will blossom. Amidst the dawn of women's liberation, social progression and scientific growth, the 1970s begin for Oxford's finest with the discovery of a body at the canal towpath on New Year's Day. With the only clue in the investigation a witness who heard whistling on the night of the crime, the team have their work cut out to uncover their culprit. The series returns at 8 pm Sunday, August 9.

Jupiter String Quartet performs at Lincoln Center

At 7 pm Sunday, August 30, the Jupiter String Quartet performs with the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center on WILL-FM 90.9. Artists-in-residence at the University of Illinois since 2012, the quartet consists of violinists Nelson Lee and Meg Freivogel, violist

Liz Freivogel (Meg's sister), and cellist Daniel McDonough (Meg's husband). Their Evening Concert is entitled As Night Descends and includes their performance of Hugo Wolf's 1887 piece "Italian Serenade for String Quartet."

New Prairie Performances for Friday nights

As part of our mission to provide arts access to everyone in central Illinois, we wanted to offer more opportunities to help local orchestras share their performances when it's not possible to gather at concert halls. And, of course, we thought of Prairie Performances—our Friday night program hosted by Roger Cooper—that has for many decades played concerts from orchestras across Illinois.

Therefore, this month we are releasing four recent concerts, one each from Champaign-Urbana Symphony Orchestra, Illinois Symphony Orchestra, Millikin-Decatur Symphony Orchestra, and Sinfonia da Camera, to refresh our hearts and minds and to deliver great music, well performed by our friends and neighbors across the state.

Tune in to WILL-FM 90.9 at 7 pm on Friday nights in August to hear some of classical music's most cherished works, cleverly programmed with less familiar pieces to compliment them. You can find the listings on pages 4-5 of Patterns.

In early fall, we hope to program more recent performances from area symphonies, so stay tuned!

▲ Sergey Bogza conducts the Millikin-Decatur Symphony Orchestra

▲ Ken Lam, conductor of the Illinois Symphony Orchestra

One more chance to see your favorites!

Lin-Manuel Miranda's debut

Making it in New York City is tough. Few get the chance to live out their dreams, and the cast and crew of In the Heights know this all too well. This young, diverse group of relatively unknown artists and performers dreamed of making it on Broadway, but are well aware that a new original musical set outside a bodega in the Latino neighborhood of Washington Heights is a highly risky proposition. It took eight years in all, but they succeeded beyond their wildest expectations, winning four Tony Awards along the way, including Best Musical and Best Score for a Musical. In the Heights: Chasing Broadway Dreams chronicles the personal stories of composer/lyricist Lin-Manuel Miranda and the cast of In the Heights in the months leading up to its 2008 opening night. The Great Performances event airs at 8 pm Friday, August 7.

Great Performances returns to the gardens of Schönbrunn Palace for the Vienna Philharmonic Summer Night Concert 2019 at 8 pm Friday, August 28. The program features popular selections from both European and American composers and is dedicated to the musical connection between continents: the old world of Europe and the new world of America.

The program includes Leonard Bernstein's overture to Candide and American classics such as John Philip Sousa's The Stars and Stripes Forever. Renowned pianist Yuja Wang (left) joins the orchestra for George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, and performs Chopin's Waltz in C Sharp Minor, Op. 64 #2 for an encore.

Lincoln Center Theater's critically acclaimed 2015 production of Rodgers & Hammerstein's The King and I airs on Great Performances at 8 pm Friday, August 21. The year is 1862, and East and West collide when British schoolteacher Anna Leonowens arrives in Siam to take up her post instructing the royal household of children from the King's several wives. Despite her sharp wit and strong will, nothing has prepared Anna for the lessons this rich and complicated new land has to teach her—or for the powerful connection she will forge with its imperious but conflicted King.

The original face of children's television

One of the most celebrated theatrical releases of 2018, Won't You Be My Neighbor? takes an intimate look at America's favorite neighbor: Fred Rogers. The documentary tells the story of a soft-spoken minister, puppeteer, writer, and producer whose show was beamed daily into homes across America for more than 30 years. In his beloved television program, Mister Rogers' Neighborhood, Rogers and his cast of puppets and friends spoke directly to young children about some of life's weightiest issues in a simple, direct fashion. There hadn't been anything like Mister Rogers on television before, and there hasn't been since. Independent Lens presents an encore of the documentary at 7 pm Monday, August 31.

On pledge drive days with this symbol, program start and end times may vary.

SOCIAL JUSTICE LEARNING

The term “social justice” can be interpreted in many ways, but the Oxford Dictionary provides a good starting point: “justice in terms of the distribution of wealth, opportunities, and privileges within a society.” Social justice issues affect people all over the world. It can occur in a specific country, city, town, or even on a smaller scale, within a school, classroom, neighborhood, or home. Social injustices arise when a person, people, or groups of people are treated unfairly, strictly based upon a certain characteristic of the person or group of people. The goal of social justice learning is to achieve a better understanding of others’ experiences with the hopes of achieving a more equitable and quality society for all peoples while also meeting their needs.

Illinois Public Media’s goal in creating a space for social justice learning is to provide educational resources and materials that can help guide children, families, and educators in exploring critical conversations about race/ethnicity, national origin, mental/physical ability, sexual orientation, gender, and gender identity/expression.

In order to fulfill this objective, we have created a page specifically for lifelong social justice education. Divided into sections for early childhood, adolescents, and adults, each area features videos, audio, and text to facilitate a variety of learning styles. We believe by beginning with our littlest ones and continuing that work throughout adulthood, we can keep the conversations, the learning, and the societal shift going to ensure a lifelong impact.

Every quarter, our social justice education page will focus on a new issue, allowing our guests to continuously engage in relevant materials while remaining current to national and worldwide developments.

Through August, we highlight race, racism, bias, and privilege in America. We must work together as a community to ensure we no longer demonstrate, teach, or tolerate racism; however, we understand these conversations can be difficult, and often we don’t know where to begin.

These are just a few examples of the content available at will.illinois.edu/socialjusticelearning.

We highly encourage you to regularly visit this page to begin or continue your growth in these social justice areas.

The folks from Code Switch compiled a playlist tailor-made for young listeners. Everyone can feel comfortable traversing these kid-friendly episodes, knowing they are free of profanity, graphic references, and other adult content. And no episode will have all the answers, we just hope they will create space for some good old-fashioned dinner-table discussions.

Beverly Daniel Tatum: Why Are All of the Black Kids Sitting Together in the Cafeteria?

Is this self-segregation a problem to address or a coping strategy? Beverly Daniel Tatum, a renowned authority on the psychology of racism, argues that straight talk about our racial identities is essential if we are serious about enabling communication across racial and ethnic divides.

Illinois Public Media welcomes Lecia Bushak

Lecia Bushak joins Illinois Public Media as our environmental reporter. Bushak, a former health reporter at Cleveland’s WCPN/WVIZ, is ready for the new challenge. “It’s been a goal of mine to cover environment for a while now, so I’m excited to report on climate and the environment here at WILL. I hope to produce stories that have a positive impact on communities in Illinois, particularly when it comes to environmental justice.”

A second-generation Ukrainian-American, Bushak’s heritage influenced her career path. “My original interest in journalism stemmed from wanting to help translate other cultures to an American audience, based off my own background. I think I’ve always been a storyteller since I was a kid. I started out writing stories from a young age—and that led to me pursuing a path in journalism in college.”

Public media also had a strong impact on Bushak’s childhood. “My mom always had the local NPR station on in the car when we drove to school. One of the things I love most about audio reporting is being able to use sound and people’s voices to draw the audience into your story, and that was something that stuck with me listening to NPR growing up.”

Now, she hopes to use a variety of means to have the same effect on her own reporting. “I’m also excited about the opportunity to be a multimedia journalist at WILL and do radio, video, and web stories. Working in different media and with visuals to help tell my stories is why I love journalism.”

Our environmental reporting position is made possible by a grant from the Backlund Trust.

Welcome to the staff, Lecia!
