July 2019 Volume XLVII, Number 1

It's hard to imagine the excitement that people felt the summer of '69. Now, we live in a world where we have endless information literally in our pockets, where we can FaceTime with loved ones anywhere on Earth, where for almost 20 years astronauts have been able to live in space, and where we have photos of a black hole.

Today, a trip to the moon almost seems mundane, but in July 1969, when even Sesame Street had not yet aired, walking on the moon was the amazing culmination of our country's decade-long goal to lead the space race.

I hope you will enjoy taking "one giant leap" back in history with our SUMMER OF SPACE. With television programming for both adults and kids, as well as local events, there is something for every space enthusiast, scientist, or historian. Take some time to remember the moment when our world became a whole lot bigger and the possibilities seemed endless.

A celestial programming spectacle sure to excite any space enthusiast!

PBS and WILL-TV celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Apollo 11 moon landing with the SUMMER OF SPACE. The lineup brings multiple new programs that cover different areas of space exploration combined with the best of our encore space-themed programming and digital content.

"Our SUMMER OF SPACE programming lineup invites PBS viewers to visit the farthest reaches of the universe, blending past and present to celebrate both the 50th anniversary of the moon landing and the latest advances in space exploration," said Perry Simon, chief programming executive and general manager of General Audience Programming at PBS.

"This exceptional collection of special programs will give viewers a historical understanding of the Apollo 11 moon landing, from its inception to execution with documentaries Chasing the Moon [from American Experience] and 8 Days: The Journey of Apollo 11, as well as exploring the distant planets and deep mysteries of space that are well beyond human grasp with Ancient Skies and NOVA programs."

SUMMER OF SPACE programs will stream following each broadcast and be available on PBS.org and the PBS Video App. Qualified Friends of WILL can view episodes with extended access through WILL Passport. SUMMER OF SPACE classroom-ready materials will also be available for educators and students on PBS LearningMedia. Go to will.illinois.edu/education for more information.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

CHASING THE MOON

A FILM BY ROBERT STONE

Chasing the Moon, a three-night event about the space race, from its earliest beginnings to the monumental achievement of the first lunar landing in 1969 and beyond, will premiere at 8 pm Monday-Wednesday, July 8-10.

The six-hour documentary series from American Experience thoroughly reimagines the race to the moon for a new generation, upending much of the conventional mythology surrounding the effort. The series recasts the Space Age as a fascinating stew of scientific innovation and PR savvy, political calculation and media spectacle, visionary impulses and personal drama. With no narration and using only archival footage—including a visual feast of previously lost or overlooked material—the film features new interviews with a diverse cast of characters who played key roles in these historic events. Among those included are astronauts Buzz Aldrin, Frank Borman and Bill Anders; Freeman Dyson, the renowned futurist and theoretical physicist; Sergei Khrushchev, the son of former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev, who played a prominent role in the Soviet space program as a rocket engineer; Poppy Northcutt, the 25-year-old “mathematics whiz” who gained worldwide attention as the first woman to serve in the all-male bastion of NASA’s Mission Control; and Ed Dwight, the Air Force pilot selected by the Kennedy administration to train as America’s first black astronaut.

While other documentaries have largely painted a familiar narrative of goals set, obstacles overcome, disasters averted and missions accomplished, Chasing the Moon tells a vastly more entertaining and surprising story. As the film reveals, the drive to land a man on the moon was fueled as much by politics as it was by technology and was a controversial undertaking during a volatile time.

University experts give local perspective on moon landing

Illinois Public Media has joined forces with various scientists and historians across the University of Illinois to bring you audio content related to Chasing the Moon and the 50th anniversary moon landing celebration. Available to hear on Morning Edition on WILL-AM 580 July 8-10, as well as online at will.illinois.edu/summerofspace, our guests will discuss the Apollo program in-depth from the perspective of University academics. Topics will include rocketry and aerospace aspects of the Apollo missions; Apollo's immediate and long-term impacts on many branches of science; and the arts, culture, and social issues during the trajectory of the space program in general—and Apollo in particular.

Explore the Apollo missions on July 18

Join Illinois Public Media and the Illinois Department of Astronomy for "Astronomy on Tap" at Broadway Food Hall at 6 pm Thursday, July 18. Astronomers and guests will discuss the successes and failures of the Apollo missions.

Along for the ride

Viewers can take a unique journey with the crew of Apollo 11 for their mission in 8 Days: To the Moon and Back. Premiering at 8 pm Wednesday, July 17 the film seamlessly blends authentic, rare mission audio featuring candid conversations between Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin, and Michael Collins with newly-shot studio footage, NASA and news archive, and stunning CGI recreation of the historic journey and landing to tell this amazing story in a riveting new way.

The Planets

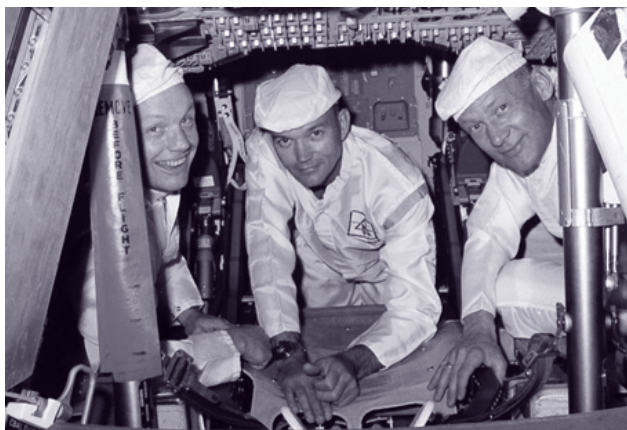

NOVA presents a groundbreaking new five-part series, The Planets, beginning at 8 pm Wednesday, July 24. The Planets tells the spectacular story of our solar system—a narrative spanning billions of years—through the eyes of the latest and most daring space missions ever mounted. Over five hour-long episodes, the series brings the eight worlds that populate our solar system vividly to life, combining accurate and detailed imagery, the latest planetary science research, and extraordinary footage captured by orbiters, landers, and rovers to piece together the gripping history of each planet.

Moonwalk One

First released in 1970, Moonwalk One is a digitally remastered version of the seminal documentary that was filmed over the course of the Apollo 11 mission. The film airs at 8 pm Tuesday, July 2 and is a masterful, poetic, and philosophic telling of how America achieved this incredible feat, bolstered by an avant-garde score and inspiring narration by Laurence Luckinbill.

Space treasures

Continue the SUMMER OF SPACE with a special episode of Antiques Roadshow. Airing at 7 pm Monday, July 8, Out of This World explores the universe of space-themed treasures, including NASA Space Program autographed photos, a 1737 celestial and terrestrial atlas, and a Star Trek treatment, script, and letters. Have the values of these stellar finds skyrocketed in the market?

Explore the myths

In the three-part series Ancient Skies, beginning at 7 pm Wednesday, July 24, audiences will discover how centuries of knowledge, experimentation, and engineering helped our ancestors explore outer space. Expert contributors and indigenous storytellers demystify astronomical myths with scientific explanations to uncover their origins.

The father of modern astronomy

When it was published in 1610, Galileo's "Sidereus Nuncius" (Starry Messenger) set in motion a scientific revolution. Using observations he made of both the earth's moon and Jupiter's moons, Galileo proved earth is not the center of the universe. 550 copies of the original treatise were originally printed and roughly 150 are known to exist today. When an original copy with Galileo's signature and seemingly original watercolor paintings of the phases of the moon believed to be done by Galileo himself came on the market in 2005, Sidereus Nuncius caused a worldwide sensation 400 years after its creation... and again in 2012 when it was proved a fake. Join experts as they examine the proof copy in an all-new episode of Secrets of the Dead, Galileo's Moon, at 7 pm Tuesday, July 2.

More award-winning journalism and series

The 40th annual Telly Awards were announced last month, and Illinois Public Media came home with an impressive nine awards! Our latest web series, Classical: BTS was the big winner, with two episodes winning Silver in videography/cinematography; three episodes winning Bronze for editing; one episode winning Bronze for videography/cinematography; and the entire series winning Bronze in the music webseries category. The webseries was produced with the support of the Barbara E. Barnes fund. Kudos to executive producer Lisa Bralts and videographer/producer Isaac Musgrave for their award-winning work!

The other winner was the news feature "From Prison to College: How a Formerly Incarcerated Student Overcame the Odds to Graduate." Created by reporter Lee V. Gaines and senior producer/director Sarah Edwards, the feature showcased Perry Cline (right) and won Silver in general individual documentary and Bronze in general: news/news feature. Congratulations to Lee and Sarah on their awards!

Niala Boodhoo chosen for Knight-Wallace Journalism Fellowship

Niala Boodhoo, host and executive producer of The 21st, was named as a Knight-Wallace Journalism Fellow, a direct result of the excellent work she has done throughout her career. As a Knight-Wallace Fellow, Boodhoo will spend the 2019-2020 academic year at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor engaging in collaborative learning through fellowship seminars, training workshops, and travel.

As part of this year-long fellowship, each journalist will pursue their own individual study plan. Boodhoo will focus on creating a replicable business plan for local news podcasts. “I’m thrilled for this opportunity to spend my fellowship year researching better ways to provide local news audio to communities,” said Boodhoo. “I feel it’s essential that journalists find ways to produce local news in an audio format that makes sense in this new digital world, and I want to help create a workable path forward for that.”

"Illinois Public Media is honored to have one of our very own counted among a group of accomplished journalists from all over the world," said Moss Bresnahan, CEO and president of Illinois Public Media. "We believe that Niala is a perfect choice for such a prestigious fellowship, and we are excited to see what great work comes out of her time there."

What's next for The 21st?

Three years ago, Niala Boodhoo was crucial to the start of The 21st. “We knew we had a great idea, and I was very excited to execute it with Illinois Public Media. The opportunity to create something new from the ground up was an absolute privilege. I feel like we’ve created a new statewide audience, prompted important conversation, and helped elevate discourse throughout Illinois.”

Now, in light of Boodhoo's fellowship, she has decided to step down as host and executive producer, effective the end of July. Senior Producer Alan Montecillo will stay with the show, and Anna Casey, former WILL Newsroom reporter, was just hired as a show producer. "I know that I'm leaving the show in good hands, and I fully expect Alan and the rest of the team will surpass the goals that we have already achieved through the show," said Boodhoo.

CEO and President of Illinois Public Media Moss Bresnahan said, “The 21st has a loyal statewide audience that appreciates lively conversation and civil discourse throughout Illinois. I trust that will continue with our very capable producing staff. A national search is underway for a new host, and we look forward to making The 21st even more relevant and exciting for our listeners.”

Over its first three years, The 21st has visited NPR in Washington, DC, won multiple Public Radio News Directors Incorporated (PRNDI) awards, and broadcast live from Springfield, Chicago, and multiple small businesses in Illinois. It now airs on five partner stations across the state.

WILL Education hosts Early Childhood Champions Dinner

WILL Education honored early childhood educators and volunteers from central Illinois at the inaugural Early Childhood Champions Dinner on May 23 at the CityView Banquet and Meeting Center in downtown Champaign.

“Brain research has shown the foundation for lifelong learning is created during those precious years from birth through age eight. Professionals in early childhood play a crucial role and have a huge responsibility in the development of our children,” said Kimberlie Kranich, director of engagement and educational outreach at Illinois Public Media. “We want to honor those professionals, recognize their volunteers, and raise awareness of the need for more funding to hire and retain early childhood educators.”

The dinner was free to practitioners in the field of early childhood education and included live music by a group of youth and adults from the Banks, Bridgewater Lewis

Fine Arts Academy (bottom right). The event also featured Bethany Patten (bottom left), workforce development policy director at the Illinois Governor’s Office of Early Childhood Development, who delivered the keynote address.

“Valued, supported, and well-compensated educators are the foundation of high-quality early care and education in Illinois,” said Patten. “Whether you are working in homes, centers, or schools, the relationships you form with children lay the groundwork for future relationships and learning across a child’s life. If we as a state can help you to be successful, we will help young children to succeed as well.”

This event marks the beginning of a multi-year effort by WILL Education to recognize early childhood professionals in central Illinois, raise public awareness of the critical work they do, and highlight what research shows are critical steps needed to move forward.

Want to learn more about WILL Education’s efforts throughout the community? Go to the WILL Education blog at will.illinois.edu/education/blog, where you can read about the YES! Civics Youth Engagement Summit, find tools for engaging in learning with children, and learn how to volunteer!
