November 2021 Volume XLIX, Number 5

Two years ago, when Illinois Public Media opened our doors to the Friends of WILL for our first Friendsgiving, we hoped the event would become a November tradition to help us thank you for all you do. However, for pandemic-related reasons, we have yet to host a second open house.

So, in place of saying thank you in person, I am going to echo what I said in this space around this time last year—I remain grateful for your kindness and support throughout the last 18 months. We continue to receive such rewarding messages about how our work impacts each of you, as well as valuable feedback, both of which help guide us as we navigate these changing times.

It is thanks to your ongoing support—even during a pandemic—that we've been able to build on our award-winning efforts with Illinois Newsroom; host state-wide conversations on The 21st; deliver another powerful season of Classical:BTS; highlight brilliant performances on our classical station; provide important educational resources to hundreds of thousands of students; and continue to be a trusted space for a wide range of viewpoints.

I remain hopeful that next November we can all get together for a very special Friendsgiving to celebrate our 100th anniversary. And regardless of whether we meet in person, I am grateful for the connections we continue to make with you as your local public media station. Thank you, Friends.

A uniquely American performance

Martin Scorsese reveals the fascinating story of a one-night-only performance in 1826 at St. Patrick's Old Cathedral—Scorsese's home church in Little Italy—that marked the arrival of Italian opera in the New World in The Oratorio. This watershed event was lost to history for almost 200 years, but was recently rediscovered and restaged by an Italian opera company at the historic church. Exploring the richness of the immigrant experience, the beginning of a cultural awakening in America, and the enduring power of art, The Oratorio: A Documentary With Martin Scorsese premieres at 8 pm Friday, November 5.

The Oratorio is populated with unforgettable characters, including Lorenzo Da Ponte, Mozart's librettist, who, after being banished from Vienna, ended up in New York City working as a grocer; Pierre Toussaint, a freed slave who became a successful hairdresser and the primary benefactor for building St. Patrick's Old Cathedral; and opera's first diva, Maria Malibran, whose performances in America inspired young women to take up singing.

Scorsese has a deeply personal connection to the cathedral and its surrounding neighborhood. He grew up around the corner and served as an altar boy at the two-centuries-old church. In the documentary, he explores the neighborhood's history, its transition from Irish to Italian, and the incredible influence it had on "the way I view my world and my work."

The Oratorio features interviews with opera theater director Claudio Orazi and musicologist Francesco Zimei, who led the efforts to restage the oratorio and convince the Italian government to fund the performance as a gift to the US from the Old World. Jared Lamenzo, music director and organ master, provides a behind-the-scenes look at the tinkering and inventive engineering needed to keep the church's 150-year-old organ working.

The film also highlights the enduring importance of the cathedral in present-day New York. Current parishioners Jim and Jeannie Gaffigan discuss the role that the church and an ever-changing immigrant demographic play in the community and in the dream that continues to bring so many to America.

Immediately following the documentary at 9 pm, Da Ponte's Oratorio: A Concert for New York presents Italian opera company Teatro Lirico di Cagliari performing the restaged concert, lost to history for almost 200 years. Through the meticulous research of Basilica Music Director Lamenzo and Italian musicologist Zimei, the program recreates as closely as possible what was heard in 1826.

Doctoral flutist student curates episode of Prairie Performances

As a special episode of Prairie Performances, Julia Escobar will present a curated two-hour program of symphonic music featuring the flute called The Fantastic Flute. Escobar is the first-ever John Frayne Classical Music Graduate Student Work Experience fellow, made possible through a gift to the University of Illinois School of Music and Illinois Public Media. Escobar is working on her doctorate in flute performance, and her aim through both her work experience and this special program is to showcase the flute in a variety of orchestral pieces to give listeners a diverse aural palette. The program will span composers from Bach to Stravinsky and will sample standard “orchestral excerpts”—selections from orchestral pieces that contain prominent flute solos. Escobar will also share a recording of her flute professor Dr. Jonathan Keeble as a part of this program. Dr. Keeble will dazzle with the Flute Concerto by Richard Prior; in fact, he is the flutist for which the concerto was composed. As the central figure and mentor for Escobar’s master and doctoral degrees at the University of Illinois, she is honored to present him on the air. The Fantastic Flute will also include performances by favorite local groups such as Sinfonia da Camera and University of Illinois Symphony Orchestra. Airing at 7 pm Friday, November 26 on WILL-FM 90.9, this special programming continues Prairie Performances’ objective to provide quality music through a local lens.

Escobar’s fellowship at the station is due to the generosity of two local couples and long-time Friends of WILL, Terry and Barbara England and Herb and Jane Lasky. This gift fully funds special classical-first projects created by a University of Illinois School of Music grad student for our WILL Classical service for years to come.

Land Girls season 1 marathon

Land Girls is a BBC period drama with a charming ensemble cast follows the lives, loves, highs, and lows of members of the Women’s Land Army during World War II. As men fought on the battlefields, women from all walks of life worked the farms that fed the nation, doing their part to keep the home front running. Meet Joyce, Nancy, Annie, and Bea, four girls away from home who officially join the Land Army to help Britain dig for victory, while also navigating their personal lives. The series, which has been compared favorably to Call the Midwife, highlights women’s advancement in the world of agriculture. Watch the entire first season beginning at 4 pm Sunday, November 28 or with your WILL Passport.

Travel to Tanglewood with the Boston Symphony Orchestra

Experience a concert of works by legendary composer John Williams from the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer home at Tanglewood, including Williams' new violin concerto performed by virtuoso Anne-Sophie Mutter and other works conducted by Andris Nelsons. Great Performances presents John Williams at Tanglewood at 8 pm Friday, November 12.

Great Performances celebrates the opening night of San Francisco Symphony's 110th season as it welcomes its Music Director, GRAMMY-winning conductor-composer Esa-Pekka Salonen, to the stage as conductor, marking their first opening night concert together since Salonen assumed the post of Music Director last season. The concert includes performances of John Adams' "Slonimsky's Earbox," Alberto Ginastera's "Estancia" Suite with LINES Ballet performing original choreography by Alonzo King, and Silvestre Revueltas' "Noche de Encantamiento" from his film score to "La Noche de los Mayas." San Francisco Symphony Reopening Night, a performance by Great Experiences, premieres at 8 pm Friday, November 19.

Esa-Pekka Salonen joins the San Francisco Symphony

A classic is modernized

Great Performances presents a contemporary reboot of Coppelia! for the digital age. Doctor Coppelius is a sinister cosmetic surgeon whose quest to build the perfect robot woman threatens the romance—and then the very lives—of young lovers Swan and Franz. With everyone falling under the surgeon's spell, Swan must act to save her sweetheart before his heart is used to spark life into Doctor Coppelius' creation: Coppelia. A modern fairytale for the whole family, this new interpretation features an innovative blend of live action ballet with 2D and 3D animation. The episode airs at 8 pm Friday, November 26 and is available on-demand and through your WILL Passport.

Native American Heritage Month

A terrible tragedy revisited

"Kill the Indian in him, and save the man." This was the guiding principle that removed thousands of Native American children and placed them in Indian boarding schools. Among the many who died at Carlisle Indian Industrial School were three Northern Arapaho boys. More than a century later, tribal members journey from Wyoming to Pennsylvania to retrieve the remains of the children. It's a journey into the troubled history of Indian boarding schools and a quest to heal generational wounds. Independent Lens presents Home From School: The Children of Carlisle at 8 pm Tuesday, November 23.

Nature's Born in the Rockies follows the lives of several courageous animal families as they struggle to raise their young in one of the most challenging habitats on Earth—the North America's Rocky Mountains. The series explores the inner lives of family life and reveals just how challenging it can be for a youngster growing up in the Rockies. They must learn how to navigate their environment, understand the rules of their society, and face the challenges of a rapidly changing world. Step into the wild Rockies and see how legends are born with this two-part series at 7 pm Wednesdays, November 10 and 17.

Get all the Nature you want that week with a marathon of episodes starting at 12 pm Sunday, November 14.

Brass band music in Native culture

Native American music may not conjure images of tubas, trumpets, and John Philip Sousa marches. Yet this vibrant musical tradition has been a part of Native American culture for more than 100 years. Sousa on the Rez: Marching to the Beat of a Different Drum traces the origins of the four remaining multi-generational, community-based tribal bands. Combining profiles of contemporary bands with fresh historical research, Sousa on the Rez offers an unexpected and engaging picture of this little-known aspect of the Native music scene. The special airs at 10 pm Friday, November 12.

America's First Peoples

Native America explores the world created by America's First Peoples, 15,000 years ago. Combining modern science with Native knowledge, the four-part series shines a spotlight on these ancient cultures and the communities that still thrive today. From revealing massive cities aligned to the stars and 100 million people connected by social networks spanning two continents, Native America will take you on a trip around the globe. This includes a stop outside St. Louis to explore University of Illinois Researcher and Archaeologist Timothy Pauketet's and his team's work to uncover remains of a celestial calendar at Cahokia Mounds. Experience all four parts of Native America at 12 pm Sunday, November 7.

Take a seat on the ultimate thrill ride

NOVA presents Universe Revealed, a five-part series that delves into the vastness of space to capture moments of high drama when the universe changed forever. State-of-the-art animation gives us astonishing, photorealistic glimpses of the birth of a star in a stellar nursery, the chaos created as two galaxies collide, and the power of a supermassive black hole as it flings a star across space so violently that it's still traveling 10 million years later. NOVA even takes viewers back on the ultimate time travel voyage, to witness the birth of space and time itself. Informed by huge advances in scientific understanding, the series brings us face-to-face with the most surprising characters in the cosmos and reveals how their fates are intertwined with our own. Take a ringside seat for the greatest show in the universe. Universe Revealed airs at 7 pm Wednesdays in November.

TableFunk Muzik Group LLC

Illinois Public Media is launching a new quarterly series called News, Brews & Beatz—a space for diverse voices to engage in breakthrough conversations regarding pressing community issues and allow for realistic solutions to be identified. These events are intended to be approachable, informative, and entertaining while also tackling difficult topics and situations in a head on and direct way.

Each quarter, News, Brews & Beatz will focus on a different aspect of the gun violence crisis going on in our community—and communities across the country—and share what individuals and community groups are doing to combat it. It will be co-hosted by Illinois Public Media News and Public Affairs Director, Reginald Hardwick, and Facilitator of the Champaign Community Coalition, Tracy Parsons. They will lead these impactful conversations with notable community leaders, and University of Illinois experts on subjects ranging from helping today's youth navigate through the emotional impact and influence of social media, to a new app designed to help at-risk neighborhoods feel safe with reporting crime information.

News Brews & Beatz

Along with showcasing several successful area youth programs, including the HipHop Express Bus that teaches recording skills and the Midnight Basketball Program, News, Brews & Beatz will also feature live performances by local spoken word artist Missy Richland. Prior to the event, you can enjoy an exclusively curated soundtrack by Dj-I.c.Dre' of socially conscious music on Illinois Public Media's Spotify page.

WILL produces State of Change on environmental impact in Illinois

A United Nations report released earlier this year says if emissions are not cut nearly in half by 2030, the Earth will be on course to even more catastrophic weather events. A Nature Conservancy assessment released in April 2021 says Illinois could face 150 percent more rainfall and average summer temperatures around 100 degrees by 2100. Despite these dire warnings, not everything is doom and gloom, thanks to the efforts of a diverse group of Illinoisans.

At 7:30 pm Thursday, November 18, Illinois Public Media environmental reporter Tinisha Spain and agricultural reporter Dana Cronin will examine the evolving natural conditions of Illinois in a half-hour special on WILL-TV called State of Change.

This episode is the culmination of months of conversations with meteorologists, farmers, ecologists, and people eagerly tracking plants and animals in our state. Among the stories in this special report:

- How climate change impacts Illinois now and the future;
- A farming community divided on adding a natural gas pipeline;
- How an invasive fish is thriving along the Illinois River;
- Farmers adapting to protect livestock from hotter temperatures; and
- How Bald Eagles are back from the brink after once being considered endangered.

State of Change will be an annual television special, examining what changes have been made and further updates.

Production funding for State of Change is provided by The Backlund Family Trust.

Native American Heritage Month inspires social justice learning

Social justice affects people all over the world. It can occur in a specific country, city, town, or even on a smaller scale, within a school, classroom, neighborhood, or home. Social injustices arise when a person, people, or groups of people are treated unfairly, strictly based upon a certain characteristic of the person or group of people.

In honor of Native American Heritage Month, Illinois Public Media's Social Justice Learning space will be focusing on the experiences of Native people. Not only will this digital learning space be used to honor Native people's unique and vast make up, but it will also be a place to celebrate a diverse set of accomplishments. We believe this is an opportune time to educate ourselves and others on the distinctive set of challenges American Indians and Alaska Natives have had to face for centuries and still face today.

Native American Heritage Month has evolved from its beginnings as "American Indian Week" in 1986—just a week-long celebration over the Thanksgiving holiday—to now annual presidential proclamations designating the entire month of November as the time for all of us to celebrate the rich and diverse cultures, traditions, histories, and important contributions of Native people.

The goal of social justice learning is to achieve a better understanding of others' experiences with the hopes of achieving a more equitable and quality society for all peoples while also meeting their needs. Shown through stories, dance, family traditions, and music, these public media reports, series, films, short stories, and educational resources show the diversity and long history of Indigenous people across the United States and can help us all gain a better understanding of what it means to be a Native person in our country.

Illinois Public Media's Social Justice Learning space is divided into sections for early childhood, adolescents, and adults. Each area features videos, audio, and articles to facilitate a variety of learning styles. We believe by beginning with our littlest ones and continuing that work throughout adulthood, we can keep the conversations, the learning, and the societal shift going to ensure a lifelong impact. Starting on Nov. 8, you can explore will.illinois.edu/socialjusticelearning for more on this topic.
