“Alone we can do so little.

Together we can do so much.”

This quote from Helen Keller perfectly describes this issue of Patterns. The theme of collaboration runs throughout the articles, proof that we can do so much more when we are united with others.

Primarily, we continue our joint venture with WTVP in Peoria through the promotion of David Thiel. Page 17 tells how he will now act as content director for both stations, a step forward in uniting our two entities.

Our cover story includes details for a sneak peek viewing of Hamilton’s America, a documentary on the acclaimed musical. Guests of the event at Champaign Public Library will get a preview of this behind-the-scenes film from Great Performances, as well as the chance to win prizes.

And finally, our collaboration at Illinois Public Media is often as simple as people helping people. A photo on page 20 shows the many donations we as a staff sent to our colleagues at Louisiana Public Broadcasting affected by flooding.

The staff here at IPM prove to me every day what Helen Keller knew: collaboration is the key to success. I’m proud to be part of such an organization.

Hamilton's America, the documentary film that brings history to vivid life through the lens of Lin-Manuel Miranda's pop culture Broadway phenomenon Hamilton – winner of 11 Tony Awards and the Pulitzer Prize – airs at 8 pm Friday, October 21 as the season premiere of the PBS Arts Fall Festival.

The story of Alexander Hamilton is most remembered for its dramatic conclusion, which saw Hamilton killed in a duel by Vice President Aaron Burr. But the full story of this political genius – a poor immigrant who built himself up from nothing to become one of the nation's most vital architects – has largely been forgotten by history...until now.

Today, Hamilton's fan club is vocal and growing, thanks, in no small measure, to Tony, Grammy, and Emmy-winning composer and actor, Lin-Manuel Miranda's revolutionary musical. With its young cast claiming America's history as its own, Hamilton is redefining how audiences learn about history.

Directed by Alex Horwitz, Hamilton's America delves even deeper into the creation of the show, revealing Miranda's process of absorbing and then adapting Hamilton's epic story into groundbreaking musical theater. Further fleshing out the story is newly shot footage of the New York production with its original cast, trips to historic locations, such as Mt. Vernon and Valley Forge with Miranda and other cast members, and a surprising range of interviews with prominent personalities, experts, politicians, and musicians, including President Barack Obama, President George W. Bush, Speaker of the House Paul Ryan, Senator Elizabeth Warren, Secretary Hank Paulson, Secretary Timothy Geithner, and Stephen Sondheim.

Hamilton's America shows just how timeless the hot-button issues of today's America are: immigration, states' rights, debt, income inequality, and race relations. These were the same fights that defined Hamilton's time, and they are the driving force of Miranda's historic work. The film endeavors to brush the dust off American history, much as the musical does, and provide a unique new way for us to view our national heritage and current political landscape.

Go behind the scenes of Hamilton

Catch a special preview of Hamilton's America at the Champaign Public Library at 7 pm Monday, October 10. See a sneak peek of the documentary and win prizes!

35th season of Nature begins October 12

Nature's fall 2016 schedule kicks off Season 35 with Super Hummingbirds at 7 pm Wednesday, October 12. Filmmaker Ann Johnson Prum returns with her second film on the hummers that presents new scientific breakthroughs about the super powers of the world's smallest birds. Narrated by actress Patricia Clarkson, high speed camerawork captures their ability to fly backwards, upside-down, and float in mid-air. For the first time, viewers will see the colorful dazblers mate, lay eggs, fight, and raise families in intimate detail.

At 7 pm Wednesday, October 26, Giraffes: Africa's Gentle Giants investigates what it takes to relocate a herd of wild giraffes in Africa, whose population is being threatened by poaching and oil drilling. One determined man named Dr. Julian Fennessy, his supportive family, and dedicated Uganda Wildlife Authority rangers and veterinarians are about to find out. The delicate operation involves capturing and transporting a herd of Rothschild's giraffes, the world's rarest giraffe, to a safe sanctuary across the Nile River. Any mistake could be costly, not only for the giraffes being moved but also for an entire species.

My Congo at 7 pm Wednesday, October 19 is the first-hand account of wildlife cameraman Vianet Djenguet's return visit to his homeland after spending many years in Europe. He seeks to reveal the beauty and majesty of the Republic of Congo and its people by traveling to his favorite locations to watch and film a diversity of wildlife from forest elephants to Western lowland gorillas. Djenguet's journey is also one of self-discovery as he makes his way through the remote Northern rainforest that was his great-grandfather's homeland. It is there that he is in for an emotional surprise.

Throughout American history, Latinos were often kept from the ballot box through the use of poll taxes, gerrymandering, and outright intimidation. Willie Velasquez's 1974 Southwest Voter Registration and Education Project (SVREP) changed the face of American politics by harnessing the power of the Latino vote in unprecedented ways. Velasquez launched over a thousand voter registration drives in 200 cities, creating a movement that has continued to grow in power each year. "Today there are over 27 million eligible Latino voters," said Sandie Viquez Pedlow, executive producer and executive director of Latino Public Broadcasting. "By encouraging Latinos to become invested in the democratic process by registering to vote, Willie Velasquez and SVREP paved the way for the continually increasing power of Latinos at the polls." Willie Velasquez: Your Vote Is Your Voice, narrated by Luis Valdez, premieres at 9:30 pm Monday, October 3.

JOHN FUGELSANG

Is the American Dream alive and well?

At 9 pm Friday, October 7, Dream On investigates the perilous state of the American Dream after decades of rising income inequality and declining economic mobility. In an epic road trip, political comedian John Fugelsang retraces the journey of Alexis de Tocqueville, whose study of the United States of America in 1831 came to define the country as a place where anyone, of any background, could climb the ladder of economic opportunity. Following in the Frenchman's footsteps, Fugelsang asks whether the optimistic spirit of the American Dream that Tocqueville popularized is alive and well in the twenty-first century, or whether George Carlin was right when he famously quipped, "It's called the American Dream because you have to be asleep to believe it."

Transitions

At 9 pm Monday, October 10, meet an American family coping with one of life's most intimate transformations in the POV film From This Day Forward. Director Sharon Shattuck's father came out as transgender, living as Trisha, when Sharon was in middle school. Sharon's mother stayed with him. Now, as the family reunites to plan Sharon's wedding, she seeks a deeper understanding of how her parents' marriage, and their family, survived intact

Raising the minimum wage

Getting Ahead at 8 pm Friday, October 7 is a one-hour primetime special, presented by WNET's public media initiative Chasing the Dream: Poverty and Opportunity in America, that examines the hotly debated nationwide movement to increase the minimum wage. The documentary follows Tavis Smiley as he travels to Northern California where increases have been in place for more than a year, and offers a thought-provoking look at the real impact of higher wages on communities, businesses and employees.

More than a wall

Eric Bransby, now in his hundredth year, is a living connection to the great age of American mural painting. A Last Mural at 9 pm Wednesday, October 26 explores Bransby's life and influences over a nearly 80-year career as a visual artist. Throughout the film, you will see examples of Bransby's more than 20 murals, including twin murals featured at the south entrance of the University of Illinois' Mechanical Engineering Building.

Social change through television

American Masters: Norman Lear at 8 pm Tuesday, October 25 explores how Lear’s TV writing/producing career emerged from the intersection of art and social commitment. Lear’s popular primetime comedies All in the Family, Maude, The Jeffersons, and Good Times were reflections of a culture on the brink of significant social change. The film will combine stories from his turbulent childhood and early career with his groundbreaking TV success and social activism. The documentary will also feature colorful stories from Lear’s family, friends and collaborators.

“Brilliant wit and infectious spirit”

At 8 pm Friday, October 28, watch as an outstanding lineup of entertainers gather in the Kennedy Center Concert Hall to salute Bill Murray, recipient of the 19th annual Mark Twain Prize for American Humor. Named to honor one of the world’s greatest humorists, Murray was honored at a gala performance featuring some of the biggest names in comedy. Chicago-native Murray has a career spanning multiple decades, including work on Saturday Night Live and many feature films that showcase a “unique brand of humor” said Kennedy Center president Deborah F. Rutter.

WILL Content Director

David Thiel assumes WTVP programming duties

Two years ago, Moss Bresnahan began his work as president and CEO of both WILL and WTVP, kicking off an unprecedented collaboration between the two stations. Now, that partnership grows stronger as David Thiel, WILL's longtime content director, takes on programming duties at the Peoria-based station as well.

"After the death of beloved WTVP colleague Stacey Tomczyk this past April, WTVP's programming leadership has been in a transitional state. Extensive discussions with directors at both stations led me to the decision to merge programming duties under one manager," said Bresnahan.

Thiel was the logical choice for the role. After 19 years as WILL's content director, he's ready to tackle programming both stations. "I welcome the challenge of working out the details of this unique partnership. While some public TV stations contract with programming services from entirely different regions of the US, I live right here in central Illinois and travel to Peoria frequently. My personal relationship with the staff of WTVP goes back more than 25 years, and I can't imagine a better partner."

Bob Culkeen, interim chief operating officer at Illinois Public Media, said, "David's responsibilities will include working directly with WTVP staff to recommend and create their television schedule. This is a great example of how our collaboration works to create operational efficiencies in support of our strategic plan."

Congratulations, David!

Don't miss your chance to join our Chicago walking tour

On Thursday, October 13, join WILL on a trip up to Chicago to partake of a walking tour of Chicago's great skyscrapers. Kevin Hinders, U of I Associate Professor of Architecture and member of the Chicago Architecture Foundation, will act as our tour guide as we experience Chicago's loop on foot.

Our excursion will follow in the footsteps of Geoffrey Baer, host of the television program Chicago's Loop: A New Walking Tour. It will include Chicago's most iconic buildings. This fundraising event is $120 per friend and includes the bus trip to and from Chicago, lunch in Cellars Market on the lower level of the historic Chicago Board of Trade building, and the walking tour.

The bus will leave WILL parking lot B-22 at 8:30am on the 13th. Depending on weather conditions and time of travel, we may be able to make a bonus stop before returning home.

Guests should be prepared to walk two miles in rain or shine, including climbing stairs. Register by October 5 by calling 1-800-898-1065

KIDS

PBS Kids 24/7 channel will debut January 2017

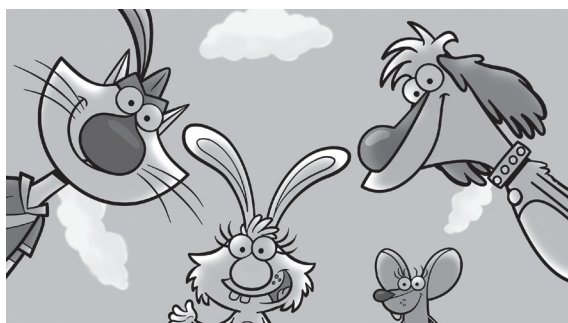

Illinois Public Media is excited to announce the launch of the new PBS Kids 24/7

channel starting January 16, 2017. The free service will include a new TV channel, a live stream on digital platforms, and an interactive gaming feature. Together, this triple play will support PBS's mission to reach all children with high-quality educational content.

With this new channel, children and their families will be able to watch their favorite PBS series during primetime and other after-school hours when viewing among families is at its highest.

In order to bring you this new experience, Illinois Public Media will combine our current Create and World programming to one channel. Further details will come, but rest assured that WILL will go above and beyond to guarantee that all popular Create and World programming will remain available in our area.
