October 2021 Volume XLIX, Number 4

As the son of a career naval officer, and a navy veteran myself, I've always appreciated public media's ongoing commitment to sharing the stories of the men and women in uniform. There are approximately 750,000 veterans living in Illinois, from the "Greatest Generation" to those who are just coming home from Afghanistan, all of whom bring honor to our communities. For those who have served, the military can be a transformative experience. What is that experience, and how does it change the men and women who have joined the ranks?

American Veteran traces the veteran experience through a new multiplatform ambitious initiative, including a four-part television series, 10-part series of digital shorts, and a nine-part podcast. From the citizen-soldiers who fought in the nation's earliest conflicts, to the men and women in today's all-volunteer armed forces, it is a rich and deeply moving story told through personal remembrances that draw civilian viewers into an unfamiliar culture. Every voice, from hosts to interviewees, is that of a veteran. Their stories contribute to our evolving understanding of the relationship between Americans who have served and those who have not.

Everyone here at Illinois Public Media remains committed to important civic conversations like those through our Illinois Newsroom, The 21st, and our ongoing documentary efforts. If you want to hear firsthand from some of our local veterans, I recommend watching the oral histories of Vietnam and World War II veterans we've archived on the Illinois Public Media YouTube channel. It's an incredibly important local resource.

Thanks for all you do for Illinois Public Media and for helping to ensure our veterans and their experiences are never forgotten.

Who's in charge of the news?

In 1922, WILL-AM (then WRM) helped usher in the world's first mass media source: radio. For the first time in humanity, news could spread instantly to thousands of people over thousands of miles.

As we approach 2022, mass media includes newspapers, radio, television, cable, websites, blogs, iPhone apps, Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, YouTube, Roku... and the list goes on.

While there are more ways to receive news, actual sources of trustworthy journalism in Illinois are declining. According to the University of North Carolina Hussman School of Journalism and Media, dozens of newspapers have closed in our state since 2004. Others have dramatically reduced the number of journalists on staff. Meanwhile, there are fewer and fewer independently owned commercial broadcast news outlets, even in downstate Illinois.

With that in mind, Illinois Public Media is asking Who's In Charge of The News? with special coverage on digital, radio, and television during October 25-29, US Media Literacy Week. Among the highlights:

ON RADIO:

Morning Edition

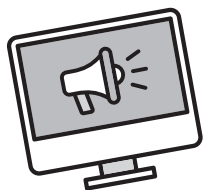

Monday-Friday 5 am on AM 580/FM 90.9

- The newspaper scene in Ford County, where journalists launched local news coverage after downsizing of the local newspaper.
- A reality check on how dying newspapers impact local communities.
- How religion impacted information about covid-19 vaccinations.

The 21st talk show

Monday-Thursday 11 am on AM 580 and 6 pm on FM 90.9

- Could new laws save independent journalism in Illinois?
- Where can you find comprehensive coverage about Black, Latino, and other under reported communities in downstate Illinois?
- How do you know the journalism that you're reading, watching or listening to is fact-based?

ON DIGITAL:

IllinoisNewsroom.org

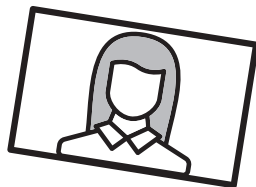

Specials include videos profiling the next generation of non-profit news sites, including the Midwest Center for Investigative Reporting, based in Champaign.

ON TELEVISION:

Newstown on Reel Midwest

8 pm Thursday, October 28 on WILL-TV 12.1

When Northwestern University professor and video journalist Craig Duff heard that the 150-year-old Youngstown Vindicator was closing, he returned to the area where he grew up in northeast Ohio and documented how the community was coping with the loss of its newspaper.

What do you think of the state of local news in 2021? Share your thoughts and we may use them in our coverage. Are you concerned about the lack of independent, local news or trustworthy sources?

HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH

highlights the fascinating, yet misunderstood, US-Mexico border region, where countries and cultures come together to create a place all its own. Follow host and executive producer Pati Jinich as she meets with artists, musicians, athletes, and local legends. Discover work reflecting the blend of Mexican, American, and other cultures, and the chefs and home cooks who bring all these people together around the table. “As a Mexican who now lives in the US, I have spent decades treading between these two countries I call home, and so the borderlands hold a special and personal meaning to me,” Jinich said. La Frontera with Pati Jinich airs at 8 pm Fridays, October 15 and 22.

“A flower that needs to let herself blossom”

Fruits of Labor follows Ashley, a Mexican-American teenager living in a small agricultural town on the central coast of California. The film is a moving coming-of-age story about a determined young woman and an eye-opening look at the seen and unseen forces that trap many families in poverty. A high school senior, Ashley dreams of graduating and going to college, but when ICE raids in her community threaten to separate her family, she is forced to become their primary breadwinner.

While most of her friends are thinking about prom and graduation, Ashley finds herself working days in the strawberry fields and the night shift at a processing plant, with little time left for sleep or studies. Tracing the tensions between family bonds and the systems that work to sever them, Fruits of Labor follows Ashley as she tries to hold on to her dreams while coping with obligations to her mother, who is undocumented, and three younger siblings. Fruits of Labor, a co-presentation of POV and Latino Public Broadcasting's VOCES, airs at 9 pm Monday, October 4.

Just a Girl Who Decided to Go For It

Over a career spanning more than 70 years, Rita Moreno defied both her humble upbringing and relentless racism to become a celebrated and award-winning actor.

American Masters—Rita Moreno: Just a Girl Who Decided to Go For It explores the star's rich, decades-long career using vérité footage of Moreno today, archival footage of her roles and appearances, reenactments of her childhood, animation and interviews with Moreno, those close to her and performers she influenced. Film interviewees include Gloria Estefan, Morgan Freeman, Mitzi Gaynor, Whoopi Goldberg, Eva Longoria, Justina Machado, Terrence McNally, Karen Olivo, as well as Norman Lear and Lin-Manuel Miranda, who are also executive producers on the project. American Masters—Rita Moreno: Just a Girl Who Decided to Go For It premieres at 8 pm Tuesday, October 5.

Born into poverty on a Puerto Rican farm, Moreno and her seamstress mother immigrated to New York City when Moreno was five years old. After studying dance and performing on Broadway, Moreno was cast as any ethnic minority the Hollywood studios needed filled: Polynesian, Native American, Egyptian, and more. Despite becoming the first Latina actress to win an Academy Award for her role as Anita in West Side Story (1961), the studios continued to offer Moreno lesser roles as stereotypical ethnic minorities, ignoring her proven talent.

Beyond the racism she experienced as a Latina actor, American Masters—Rita Moreno: Just a Girl Who Decided to Go For It explores the lesser-known struggles Moreno faced on her path to stardom, including pernicious Hollywood sexism and sexual abuse, a toxic relationship with Marlon Brando, and an attempted suicide a year before she won her Oscar. The documentary also revisits her notable roles, including The Electric Company (PBS), the Broadway and feature film version of The Ritz, Oz, and, most recently, One Day at a Time. The documentary demonstrates Moreno's talent and resilience as she broke barriers, paved the way for new generations of artists by refusing to be pigeonholed and fought for Latinx representation in a variety of genres.

Season 10 of Call the Midwife premieres

It's 1966, and the era brings tests for the midwives. But there's excitement, too, as the women's rights movement intensifies. With Trixie's help, Sister Julianne is determined to steer Nonnatus House out of its financial quandary. Dr Turner deals with an array of difficult cases including a former soldier involved in nuclear test explosions. Sister Monica Joan experiences a crisis of faith. Sister Frances realizes she needs to be a little less spiritual if she's to really connect with the local women. Call The Midwife returns at 7 pm Sundays in October.

The American veteran experience

American Veteran illuminates the veteran experience with a stunning range of voices from today and across the arc of American history. From the citizen-soldiers returning from the American Revolution to today's warrior class, they tell a deeply moving story, highlighting personal remembrances, drawing civilian viewers into an unfamiliar culture, and highlighting the evolving relationship between Americans who have served in the military and those who have not. TV episode narrators include TV host and former Marine Drew Carey; Iraq War Army veteran and Illinois Senator Tammy Duckworth; actor, Vietnam War veteran (National Guard) and Native American (Cherokee) activist Wes Studi; and actor, motivational speaker and Army veteran, J. R. Martinez. The series begins at 8 pm Tuesday, October 26.

It's 1958 and trouble is brewing in the Cambridgeshire village of Grantchester. Reverend Will Davenport (Tom Brittney) relishes his role as a firebrand vicar, willing to rock the boat and challenge conventions to help people. But the very role he loves puts him at odds with his own ideals when his kind-hearted curate, Leonard Finch (Al Weaver) is caught up in a scandal. Will's best friend, Detective Inspector Geordie Keating (Robson Green), finds his principles shaken, housekeeper Mrs. Chapman (Tessa Peake-Jones) is distraught, and Geordie's wife Cathy (Kacey Ainsworth) is defiant. With new crimes around every corner, and morality and legality at odds, it's going to take all of Will's skill and empathy to navigate these choppy waters and help the ones he loves. Grantchester on MASTERPIECE returns to Sundays at 8 pm October 3.

Grantchester
for season 6

Not an illness to be cured

Cured is the David-vs.-Goliath story of the psychiatrists and activists who fought to remove homosexuality from the DSM (Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders) in the early 1970s. Facing treatments such as electroconvulsive therapy, castration, and lobotomies as “cures” for homosexuality, gay people recognized that overturning the mental illness label was a crucial step on the road to equality. Through newly unearthed archival footage and incisive interviews with participants, this award-winning film illuminates a pivotal moment in the Gay Liberation movement—one that changed not only the LGBTQ community and the field of psychiatry, but also the social fabric of America. An Independent Lens production, Cured airs at 9 pm Monday, October 11.

A disability rights pioneer

Becoming Helen Keller, presented by American Masters, reclaims the life story of Helen Keller by placing her experiences and work freshly into the context of her times. We all know her name and her legend. But Keller’s story is so much bigger. Taking her from the poorhouses and segregated blind and deaf schools of her 19th century childhood, to worldwide celebrity and work as an advocate for the poor and people with disabilities around the world, this innovative film will bring Keller’s story vividly to life from her point of view and from the perspectives of those who knew her. With hundreds of rarely-seen photographs, historic film clips, striking recreations, and a marvelous performance by actress Cherry Jones, the film will illuminate how Keller, like Eleanor Roosevelt and Rosa Parks, became one of the 20th century’s human rights pioneers. The film airs at 8 pm Tuesday, October 19.

Alma's Way joins PBS Kids lineup

The engaging modern-day series stars 6-year-old Alma Rivera, a proud, confident Puerto Rican girl, who lives in the Bronx with her parents and younger brother, Junior, as well as a diverse group of close-knit and loving friends, family, and community members. Alma's Way gives children ages 4-6 the power to find their own answers to their problems, express what they think and feel, and recognize and respect the unique perspective of others. The series was created by Sonia Manzano, also known as "Maria" from Sesame Street. See page 9 for the new kids schedule on WILL-TV.

Enjoy two more trips back to the Seaside Hotel

Last spring, when PBS released the first season of the Dutch language hit Seaside Hotel on WILL Passport, several of you reached out to let us know how much you enjoyed the series. In fact, you loved the series so much that you requested more seasons to watch as soon as possible! So we are excited to share the news that Seasons 2 and 3 will be available to stream with Passport starting on September 30. For those Friends who haven't watched the first season yet, the series follows the captivating lives of the staff and guests at Andersen's Seaside Hotel on the North Sea. It has been described as Agatha Christie meets Downton Abbey. Find out more at will.illinois.edu/passport.

WILL to present original documentary County Fair

Coming soon to WILL-TV and via our streaming app, Illinois Public Media presents our latest locally-focused documentary, County Fair. The film follows a group of participants through the spring and summer of 2021 as they as they prepare for and participate in the fair tradition. County Fair also traces the changing face and popularity of rural fairs.

Participants include twins Meg and Mara Turner and their father Andy, who show heifers; Jim Cullers of Cullers French Fries; sewing expert Alison Rappleyea; circus performer Dan Luckett; and demolition derby participant Taylor Feldkamp. Look for more information about this new local project, which is currently in the editing stage, in an upcoming issue of Patterns.

WILL intern joins the team

Luis Velazquez joins the WILL team as the 2021-2022 Mullaly intern. A native of Cicero, Illinois, Velazquez graduated from the University of Illinois last May with a Bachelor of Science degree in journalism and a minor in Latina/Latino studies.

Velazquez has substantial writing experience. He was assistant news editor for the Daily Illini and currently writes for the undergraduate admissions department and the Cicero Independiente.

Velazquez uses his bilingualism to reach a broader audience. "It puts me at an advantage to seek out sources. For instance, during my undergraduate years, I worked on a story about DACA students' experiences in a predominantly white institution. Although it is a sensitive topic to discuss, my sources felt comfortable sharing their experiences because of our similar background, being Latinx.”

Velazquez brings another unique skill set to his internship: library research. Since 2019, he has worked as a student assistant at the university's Undergraduate Library. His research skills helped him navigate the Freedom of Information Act, gaining access to files and records that supported his reporting. “My work ethic will help me complete my tasks while impacting those around me.”

Welcome Luis!

The Donald P. Mullally Internship program was established in 2005 to honor WILL's former general manager who led the stations from 1973 until his retirement in 2005. It's funded by gifts made in recognition of his service, which also includes leading a restructure of the national public radio system and helping build the modern NPR. Dr. Mullally died in January 2015 at the age of 77.

Illinois Public Media's Book Mentor Project receives funding for 18th year

This month, Illinois Public Media's Book Mentor Project begins its 18th year and has received funding from PNC Foundation to continue its goal to put books in the hands of families that might not otherwise have access to books at home.

The project recruits and trains volunteers from local businesses, community service organizations, student associations, and parent groups. Book mentor volunteers visit Head Start and early childhood classrooms where they read a book and do a related activity with the children. Volunteers are assigned to a classroom and work in pairs throughout the school year so that the children develop a relationship with their book mentor.

As the needs of the community have changed, the book mentor project has evolved to meet those needs. In addition to classroom visits, the project now reaches children and families through online games and videos, DVDs, mobile apps, classroom math, and science kits and family nights. Through the program, Illinois Public Media also distributes more than 5,000 books to local Head Start and early childhood families. The program serves 42 classrooms and 720 families each year.

Now, the Book Mentor Project has once again received funding from PNC Foundation for another year of this service. "PNC has helped our Book Mentor Project serve more than 10,000 Head Start children in central Illinois since 2004," according to Kimberlie Kranich, director of engagement and educational outreach. "They have been a steadfast, flexible, and engaged partner with us all these years."

Brian Ray, PNC regional president for central Illinois, echoed Kranich's sentiment. "The Book Mentor program aligns perfectly with our PNC Grow Up Great mission to support children and caregivers in areas such as: vocabulary development, social-emotional learning, math, science, and the arts."

We are very appreciative of PNC Foundation's dedication to children's literacy.

◀ Dave Henry, PNC Champaign Bank manager and WILL Community Advisor, helps build a counting tower at the Rantoul Head Start site during a family engagement night.

Thank you, Program Underwriters!

Private support accounts for the largest single source of funds necessary to make Illinois Public Media and the WILL stations great resources for communities across central Illinois.
