May is graduation here on the University of Illinois campus, which means things are about to get a lot quieter for those of us at Illinois Public Media who work year-round. It's bittersweet as we always love the energy of having a bustling campus, but parking and eating lunch at restaurants becomes much easier!

I always love seeing all the students in their caps and gowns lined up to take photos in front of the Alma Mater statue and other campus landmarks. I'm guessing the new woolly mammoth statue outside the Natural History Building on campus will be a popular new photo spot this year.

While not all of the interns and other student workers that spend time honing their crafts at IPM are graduating, it's always hard to say goodbye to those who are moving on. However, it's thrilling to see former IPM students with bylines in major media outlets, making a real impact in local communities. With that in mind, I want to thank Robert Endres, the Mullally family, and other generous donors for creating internship opportunities to help media students prepare for successful careers. I encourage you to read up on our wonderful interns from this school year. (See page 18.)

And thank you for supporting the work that we do to prepare the next generation of reporters and media professionals and for supporting the kind of journalism that is so vital for a healthy democracy.

COVER STORY

Mubanga Chanda, who owns a Zambian restaurant in downtown Champaign, is featured May 18 on 'Prairie Fire.'

'Prairie Fire' revival premieres May 18

In 1992 a new program debuted on WILL-TV called Prairie Fire. This half-hour magazine show painted a rich picture of the people, places, music, and quirks that make Illinois a vital, creative, innovative, and beautiful nucleus of the American Midwest. The show went on to become a long-running darling among viewers and friends alike.

Some 31 years later, Illinois Public Media is excited to welcome Prairie Fire back to our airwaves in its newly re-imagined form. This modern take on a fan favorite is still rooted in storytelling, bringing you profiles, places, and performances from around the downstate area.

"We're essentially keeping the same format as the first Prairie Fire, which is exciting because we have a lot of freedom to cover a wide range of topics and come up with fun segments," said Sarah Edwards, the program's producer and director. "For example, Mid-American Gardener host Tinisha Spain will contribute longer features that are in line with her love of gardening. But also, we're developing a segment where she sits down to talk with a community leader or innovator."

Leah Marlene

The production team plans to explore all facets of life in Illinois and genres of film, and they believe the beauty of that approach will shine through in the premiere episode, airing at 7:30 pm Thursday, May 18.

Susannah Scaroni

First, we meet Susannah Scaroni, a Paralympic gold and bronze medalist who won the New York City Marathon in 2022. The segment covers the history of her injury, her childhood, the road to wheelchair racing, and, most recently, her training here at the University of Illinois where she earned her master's degree.

Next we visit Stango Cuisine in downtown Champaign to meet its owner, Mubanga Chanda. The restaurant is one of the only Zambian restaurants in the United States, and this food diary acquaints us with Chanda's delicious homemade cuisine, while sharing her story of leaving her life in Zambia to start anew here in the Midwest.

Finally, we wrap up the first episode with an interview with Normal native and singer Leah Marlene, who stunned judges with her unique voice and songwriting skills on the last edition of "American Idol." In this intimate portrait, she shares how she honed her voice and talks about the wild ride during and after her rise to stardom on "American Idol."

"We're aiming to offer special studio performances and music-related profiles and documentaries across genres," Edwards said. "Leah Marlene is perfect for the first show because she's a central Illinois native with a spectacular voice and a huge following in this area. She also recorded the theme song for the first season of Prairie Fire. I can't wait for you all to hear it!"

America's national night of remembrance

Tune in to the National Memorial Day Concert at 7 and 8:30 pm Sunday, May 28. It's the 34th annual broadcast of America's national night of remembrance, which takes viewers back to the true meaning of Memorial Day. Personal stories and tributes are interwoven with musical performances. Featuring an all-star line-up with the National Symphony Orchestra, the event brings us together as one family of Americans to honor the service and sacrifice of our men and women in uniform, military families, and all those who have given their lives for our country.

Seabees build, fight at Iwo Jima

Narrated by CBS Sports' Jim Nantz, The Seabees on Iwo Jima focuses on the story of the United States Naval Construction Battalions of World War II. The "Seabees" — some of whom were in their 60s — were recruited from the construction trades to join special battalions that built the airfields and bases needed to stage a successful war effort. Best known for their work building runways out of jungles on the coral islands in the Pacific, these construction battalions helped the United States take the war to Japan's doorstep in 1945. Learn more about their contributions in The Seabees on Iwo Jima at 10 pm Tuesday, May 9.

The first African American military aviators

A new documentary tells the story of the Tuskegee Airmen, a group of Black military pilots who broke stereotypes and helped win World War II with their daring fighter escorts of American bombers. The Tuskegee Airmen: Return to Ramitelli, premiering at 10 pm Tuesday, May 23, features interviews with many original Tuskegee Airmen, family members, and historians — both Italian and American. It also follows the daughter of a Tuskegee Airman back to Italy to visit what remains of the base at Ramitelli and includes a visit to the cemetery at Nettuno, Italy, where several Tuskegee Airmen are buried.

US military intelligence

The Registry breaks open the hidden history of the U.S. Army's Military Intelligence Service during World War II. The film profiles WWII veterans who served in the secret unit — mostly Japanese Americans who went into combat with the U.S. Army against the Japanese enemy in the Pacific. The story is possible because of a few aging Japanese American veterans with a little internet savvy and a lot of determination. Watch The Registry at 9 pm Monday, May 29.

Celebrate the king's coronation and the legacy of a beloved queen

While details were not confirmed at press time, PBS anticipates streaming the coronation of Charles III and his wife, Camilla, as king and queen beginning at 1:30 am CST Saturday, May 6. The event is expected to be 7 hours. A 90-minute special also will be announced.

Additional programs will honor the legacy of Queen Elizabeth II, Britain's longest-reigning monarch. Highlights include:

Queen Elizabeth: A Royal Life — A PBS NewsHour Special, airing at 10 pm Tuesday, May 2, explores Queen Elizabeth's life, legacy, and influence within the royal family, across the United Kingdom, and around the world.

In Their Own Words: Queen Elizabeth II, 9 pm Tuesday, May 2, journeys into the six-decade reign of Queen Elizabeth II's, including her remarkable life, from her youth to her sudden ascension to the throne, and her eventful reign of more than 60 years.

In addition, viewers can journey with royal historian Lucy Worsley as she seeks to sort out fact from fiction. Lucy Worsley's Royal Myths and Secrets begins at 7 pm Sunday, May 14.

'Frontline' investigates power, influence

Frontline investigates the power and influence of Clarence and Virginia "Ginni" Thomas on the Supreme Court and in American politics. Secrets, Politics, and the Supreme Court, airing at 9 pm Tuesday, May 9, explores the controversial rise of one of Washington's most powerful couples and their role in reshaping politics and the law.

First all-female rock band reunites

Sometime in the 1960s, two Filipina-American sisters got together with other teenage girls to play music. Little did they know their garage band would evolve into the legendary rock group Fanny, the first all-female band to release an LP with a major record label.

Fanny: The Right to Rock, airing at 9 pm Monday, May 22, shows how the group fought early barriers of race, gender, and sexuality in the music industry, and now ageism as the band reunites. Incredible archival footage is intercut with clips of the band today, as well as interviews with music icons.

‘Richard III’ in Central Park

Great Performances raises the curtain on The Public Theater’s free Shakespeare in the Park production of Richard III at 8 pm Friday, May 19. Starring Danaï Gurira in the title role, the tragedy spotlights one of The Bard’s most indelible villains as part of Great Performances’ 50th anniversary season. Guided by his lust for power and the throne, Richard III uses his words and dark charm to conceal his dismantling of government and justice by manipulating, kidnapping, and killing all who stand in his way. The energetic production features the use of American Sign Language, a revolving set, and dance sequences. Recorded live in July 2022 from Central Park.

Escape to Scandinavia in new series

Immerse yourself in the breathtaking landscapes of Scandinavia. Wild Scandinavia, a three-part series that airs Wednesdays at 7 pm beginning May 10, explores a different captivating natural world in each episode: the hauntingly beautiful coast, the magical seasonal forests, and the volcanic and arctic extremes. Surprising wildlife stories of lynx and puffins, orca and wolves reveal the resilient spirit of Scandinavia. Myth and modernity co-exist. Odin and Thor, base jumpers, and reindeer herders are all woven into this icy natural world.

Having spent the winter out at sea, an Atlantic puffin (Fratercula arctica) returns to its breeding colony on the island of Hornøya, Norway.

Left, Scandinavia’s most secretive inhabitant, thousands of lynx slink through the dark forests but are almost never seen. Above, Scandinavia holds the vast majority of Europe’s fresh water, held in millions of lakes that were forged by glaciers during the last ice age.

‘Jamaica Inn’ premieres May 14

Previously a Passport exclusive, Jamaica Inn has its broadcast debut on WILL-TV at 10 pm Sunday, May 14. The three-part series is a period drama adapted from Daphne du Maurier's gothic novel. Set in 1820 against the forbidding backdrop of windswept Cornish moors, the story follows the journey of young and spirited Mary who, after the death of her mother, is forced to live with her aunt Patience at the isolated Jamaica Inn. The inn has no guests — the rooms are locked and kept for storage. But as Mary investigates, it soon becomes clear that it's a cover for criminal activity.

Return to ‘Seaside Hotel’ for season 6

The Danish dramatic comedy Seaside Hotel returns with its season 6 premiere at 11 pm Sunday, May 14. The series follows the guests and employees at a coastal hotel in northwest Denmark. In season 6, six years have passed, and it is now the summer of 1939. The dark clouds of World War II are looming over Europe, but the regulars have again gone on holiday to the idyll of the North Sea. Amanda is struggling to keep her small film company alive, and Weyse is suffering from stage fright.

Season 7 of ‘Father Brown’ begins May 11

Season 7 of Father Brown begins at 8 pm Thursday, May 11 (with the usual 7 pm Saturday repeats). Mark Williams stars as Father Brown, a clergyman with a particular talent for crime solving. Assisted in his efforts by a motley — and not always godly — squad of allies, he investigates crimes to save souls. Among the escapades for this season, Father Brown finds himself trapped with a murderer during a dark, stormy night; a civilized fundraiser at a finishing school puts Mrs. McCarthy in the path of a rogue bullet; and a daring train robbery sees Lady Felicia and Mrs. McCarthy carried off in the dead of night.

Watch these limited series only on Passport

We have two PBS Passport-exclusive premieres this month.

Our House tells the story of Fi Lawson (Tuppence Middleton), who arrives home one day to find a family of strangers moving into her house, and that her husband Bram has disappeared. The four-episode limited series is adapted from Louise Candlish's best-selling "real estate thriller," which won the British Book Awards Crime and Thriller Book of the Year. It will be available starting May 15.

The romantic drama Marriage offers a warm, up-close portrait of a 30-year relationship — sometimes funny, sometimes moving, and always revealing. Married couple Ian (Sean Bean) and Emma (Nicola Walker) negotiate the insecurities, the ambiguities, the hopes and the fears, and the risks and the gifts of a long-term intimate relationship. The four-part limited series will be available to start streaming on PBS Passport on May 29.

Student interns serve many roles at IPM

During the past year, we have had many students work as interns in various positions at Illinois Public Media. We appreciate their hard work and dedication, and we hope that their experiences will help them achieve their future academic and career goals.

Aniyha Jones

Aniyha Jones received the Donald P. Mullaly Internship Scholarship for 2022-2023 and has served as an associate producer on The 21st. During her time at Illinois Public Media, Jones pitched segment ideas, researched topics, booked guests, and wrote scripts for the statewide show. "Working with The 21st was truly a blessing. As a marketing major, lots of my experience within the journalism space is self-taught and this opportunity allowed me to sharpen my skills," Jones said. "I've learned how to produce segments from start to finish and gained an understanding of storytelling for the radio."

Jones came to us from the Gies College of Business. She will attend Northwestern's Medill School of Journalism in the fall.

Arianna Williams

Arianna Williams received the Robert O. Endres Endowed Internship for 2022-2023 and has served as a multiplatform student journalist in the Illinois Public Media newsroom. During her time with the organization, she worked on the News Around Illinois newsletter, helped write stories, and schedule web posts on social media. In the fall, she helped launch our presence on TikTok.

"As the digital editor intern, I was able to learn how to build a social media account that entertains while still being informative," Williams said. "This was my favorite part of the internship because it allowed me to capture the moments that make IPM, IPM."

Williams is a student in the College of Media and serves as the president of the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign chapter of the National Association of Black Journalists.

James Perkovich received the Humanities Gateway Internship in Public Media and Civic Engagement to work with Illinois Public Media's Education and Outreach department as a co-producer of community engagement. Perkovich helped produce community listening sessions for journalists in our newsroom and conducted outreach for the Reel Midwest Film Festival, which is offered as a part of Illinois Public Media's collaboration on the Arthouse Experience Film Series at the Virginia Theatre. "Working at IPM has been the most meaningful job I have had so far, and I'm very grateful that I have gotten to see the dedication and thoughtfulness within local media," Perkovich said.

Ashleigh Kendrick received the Brandt Fellowship for both the fall and spring semesters and has served as a social media content creator for News, Brews & Beatz. During her time with Illinois Public Media, she focused on creating informative and entertaining videos around these community conversations with the hopes of engaging a new audience in the digital space.

Celeste Acosta served as a bilingual student in the Education and Outreach department. Acosta provided translation services for the Book Mentor Project, which included written translation services as well as fieldwork providing interpretation services for Spanish-speaking families at our family night events.

Niyah Edmond also worked with the Education and Outreach department, handling the day-to-day clerical and administrative support tasks, for the Book Mentor Project. Edmond worked out in the field, visiting our partner locations for various tasks and actively participating in the program's family nights.

Farrah Anderson produced Illinois Public Media's daily podcast 217 Today and worked on the general assignment desk on Fridays.

Owen Henderson created daily web posts for The 21st and occasionally produced segments for the show.

Yashovardhan Maheshwari created web posts for the Illinois Newsroom.

Zainie Qureshi created web posts for The 21st and helped launch Illinois Public Media's presence on TikTok, with a focus on creating videos about The 21st.

Sydney Wood produced Illinois Public Media's daily podcast 217 Today.

Advocate for, support your public media

What does public media mean to you? We hope you will share your answer loud and proud during Public Media Giving Days, a time to celebrate what #PublicMediaGives to you and your community and to join together in giving back.

Locally, Public Media Giving Days will fall at the end of our radio fund drive, which runs April 27-May 2. The final two days will culminate in our first Public Media Giving Days, which is focused on advocacy and giving. We invite you to use #PublicMediaGives when you share on social media channels what public media means to you.

"We are very excited to participate in this new national campaign dedicated to promoting the good work public media does, and we also look forward to spotlighting the positive impact our donors have on central Illinois communities," said John Steinbacher, director of development for Illinois Public Media. "I hope many of our current Friends will take the opportunity to celebrate IPM, PBS, and NPR with an additional gift of support and share their love for public media with their friends, family, and fellow community members."

PUBLIC MEDIA GIVING DAYS

MAY 1-2
2023

To give an additional gift of support for Illinois Public Media, we invite you to go to willgive.org or use the QR Code.

#PublicMediaGives only because you, and people like you, also give.

'The Two Popes' is featured Arthouse film

Inspired by true events, "The Two Popes" (2019) takes viewers behind Vatican walls where the conservative Pope Benedict XVI (Anthony Hopkins) and the liberal future Pope Francis (Jonathan Pryce) meet privately to find common ground to forge a new path for the Catholic Church. The PG 13-rated film will be shown at 7 pm Wednesday, May 31, as part of The Arthouse Experience Film Series at the Virginia Theatre, 203 W. Park Ave., Champaign.

Arthouse EXPERIENCE

Hosted by Illinois Public Media and the Champaign Park District, films in the series are limited-release, high-quality titles that have captured the imagination of movie lovers. Films will be followed by a discussion and, in some cases, an on-stage talk by directors, producers, and other special guests.

General admission tickets ($7 per film) are available at the Virginia Theatre box office, online at thevirginia.org, or charge by phone at 217-356-9063.

WILL101

As we celebrate our 101st year on the air, this column will answer questions about the inner workings of a public media station. Email your questions to will-membership@illinois.edu with "WILL 101" in the subject line. Class is officially in session!

Why do you have a traffic department? You don't air regular traffic reports.

While Illinois Public Media's traffic department is not responsible for reporting on the vehicle traffic throughout central Illinois, they do make sure everything you see and hear moves efficiently. Our radio and television staff members in traffic are the unsung heroes of operations — fitting shows, promotions, and underwriting announcements into the daily and weekly schedules and creating logs for operations. Traffic is the backbone of IPM. Without out traffic department, there would be just be silence on our air.

Kranich connects, engages with communities

Kimberlie Kranich started at Illinois Public Media 25 years ago as promotions coordinator in the Marketing Department. Her background included TV and radio production and news at public broadcasting and commercial stations and a Black-owned-and-operated newspaper in her hometown of Racine, Wisconsin.

Q. How long have you been the director of community content and engagement?

A. I have been in engagement since 2005, when we were one of 12 public broadcasting stations to receive a Corporation for Public Broadcasting grant to start a formal engagement department to work with our content producers. Our goal was to connect them to the communities they serve and also to create collaborations with other media organizations and community organizations that share similar missions, such as libraries, health care organizations, and museums.

Q. What are your responsibilities in your current position?

A. I supervise four services at IPM: education, engagement, Illinois Youth Media, and our Illinois Radio Reading service.

Today, we put most of our focus on supporting early childhood development in urban and rural communities working with schools, libraries, park districts, Head Start, Rotary, and other service organizations to support literacy, STEAM (science, technology, engineering, arts, and mathematics), and social-emotional development in children ages birth through eight. Kellie Blanden heads our early childhood efforts and has expanded our service since her arrival in 2016. I don't know what I would do without her.

Our engagement department works with all other departments at the station doing everything from setting up listening sessions with IPM content producers and community members to hosting documentary film screening events at The Virginia Theatre and supporting our News, Brews & Beatz events produced by Jill Clements.

Our Illinois Youth Media service works with students in middle school through high school, guiding them to create stories that reflect the different communities we serve. We have worked with Uni High and their oral history program since 1995. Our IYM content is distributed on our website, in podcasts, via broadcasts, and on our YouTube channel.

Our IRR service, headed by Kathie Spegal, includes more than 50 volunteers who read regional newspapers and national periodicals for listeners who are visually and/or print-impaired. Our service helps keep listeners connected to their local communities.

Q. Why do you feel these activities are important to the communities we serve?

A. What makes us unique as a public broadcasting service is that we are rooted in central Illinois and the University of Illinois. Our regional value is in holding up a mirror with our content, events, and programming to help people make sense of their communities, region, and state. Engagement also connects people to each other and to local resources and helps build trust among the audiences we serve by listening, partnering, and being accountable.

Q. Tell us about some upcoming projects?

A. We honor and thank those who support childhood learning and development with our annual Early Childhood Champions each May. We bring early childhood educators and service providers together to celebrate them, and we give out four awards each year.

Reel Midwest is the brainchild of our executive director, Moss Bresnahan. We acquire independent social documentary films made by producers in the Midwest or films about the Midwest and broadcast them. We bring some of those films to our in-person Arthouse Experience Film Series at the Virginia Theatre in downtown Champaign. We typically host the filmmaker and a local panel at the screening to facilitate a discussion with community members.

I am thankful for all of those who worked at WILL before me and made it possible for me to have my turn at making an impact. I also am grateful to colleagues who work with me now and to those who will come after me and will keep the station strong and relevant.

Thank you, Program Underwriters!

Private support accounts for the largest single source of funds necessary to make Illinois Public Media and the WILL stations great resources for communities across central Illinois.
