NOVEMBER 2023 Vol. XLIX, No. 5

As a public media organization, it's always been a priority of ours to not only provide essential programming for you on TV and radio, but also to connect with you in the community. That's why I am incredibly excited we are working to provide more opportunities for our members, viewers, and listeners to engage with us directly. It is one of our priorities as a station for you to know us over the air and in person.

Over the last few years, we started a partnership with the Champaign Park District to bring you important documentaries at the Virginia Theatre, launched our News, Brews & Beatz series, expanded remote broadcasts of The 21st Show, prioritized our presence at public events like C-U Pride Fest and CU Days, offered more virtual events like our upcoming member event with Steve Inskeep, and so much more. Plus, Kellie Blanden, our assistant director of educational outreach, travels all over our region providing children with unique learning experiences; and Todd Gleason, our ag information producer, logs thousands of miles visiting farmers and attending conferences.

Of course, we also believe it's essential the public has the opportunity to visit our station and see how we operate on a day-to-day basis. That's why we are so excited to host our third annual Friendsgiving event on Nov. 16. This year's theme will be WILL 101, providing you with a short "class" on how each department runs. I promise these classes will be fun and won't be as intense as some others offered here on the University of Illinois campus!

We hope to have the opportunity to talk to you in person at one of our events. And we thank you, our Friends, for your continued support.

COVER STORY

Tinisha Spain, host and producer of IPM's 'State of Change,' is filmed at Busey Woods, just outside the Anita Purvis Nature Center.

How the climate crisis is impacting communities of color

The third edition of Illinois Public Media's award-winning State of Change will focus on what communities of color in Illinois are doing (or should be doing) to prepare for the climate crisis. The half-hour special will air on WILL-TV at 7:30 pm Thursday, Nov. 9, and on PBS stations across Illinois.

"To understand the entire reality that lies ahead in the climate crisis, we have to look at how communities of color in Illinois are preparing," said Reginald Hardwick, executive producer of State of Change and IPM news and public affairs director. "Black, Latino, and communities with fewer resources already suffer from rising temperatures and more frequent flooding. We also will look at efforts to restore green spaces in our state and to make sustainable housing affordable to all."

Featured stories:

- A look at recent record-breaking temperatures and the impact on Black, Brown, and low-income neighborhoods. Doctors explain the long-term effects of extreme heat on our bodies.
- In Waukegan, a large mostly Black and Latino community is home to five hazardous waste sites the U.S. EPA is trying to clean up. There's a battle over where to permanently store coal ash from a recently shut-down coal plant.
- We explore net zero homes and ways communities of color with lower household incomes can afford sustainable houses.

Past programs also are available with the PBS App

- We also take viewers to Peoria and Danville where there are efforts to bring more green spaces and forestry to communities of color.

Illinois Public Media environmental reporter Tinisha Spain is host and producer of State of Change.

"I look forward to this special each year because it allows me to report on such an important issue," Spain said. "This series also pairs well with Mid-American Gardener, which I host, because everything we do ties back to the environment. It connects us all."

Since its creation three years ago, State of Change has been recognized with the 2022 Public Media Journalists award, as well as nominations for the 2022 National Association of Black Journalists Salute to Excellence award, and for a Mid-America Emmy in 2022 and 2023.

Funds for State of Change are provided by the Backlund Charitable Trust of Illinois.

Each year in the U.S. nearly 5,000 high school girls basketball players earn a full-ride Division I scholarship. In 1992, only one was Native American: Blackfeet Nation's Malia Kipp. Living in two worlds presented challenges, but Kipp carried the burden with grace and grit. Described by her chief as "a warrior," she blazed a heroic and inspiring trail for other Native girls to follow. Native Ball: Legacy of a Trailblazer airs 10:30 pm Tuesday, Nov. 21.

They changed the course of female sports

Tennis legend Billie Jean King hosts Groundbreakers, a new special on women's sports. King and seven female sports icons discuss how Title IX and their own achievements changed the course of women's sports. Airing at 7 pm Tuesday, Nov. 21, the special features Diana Flores, Julie Foudy, Jackie Joyner-Kersey, Chloe Kim, Suni Lee, Nancy Lieberman, and Naomi Osaka.

Prairie Fire, WILL's monthly magazine show, features central Illinois stories at 7:30 pm Thursday, Nov. 16.

This month, we feature one new story in honor of Veteran's Day and two fan favorites from this year.

We visit Operation Wild Horse in Bull Valley, Illinois, a nonprofit organization that provides a space where veterans, active-duty military, and family members can build community and form a bond with wild mustangs and burros. We follow the female veterans camp, which is a weekly program. Operation Wild Horse hopes to enable unique, life-changing experiences with the goal of decreasing suicides among veterans.

A Texas town faces its troubled past

The Muslim community in Victoria, Texas, watched in horror when their mosque was burned to the ground in an apparent hate crime. A co-production of Reel South and Independent Lens, the three-part docuseries A Town Called Victoria examines a community that must overcome its age-old political, racial, and economic divides and begin the hard work of changing itself for the better. A Town Called Victoria airs at 9 pm Monday, Nov. 13 (parts 1 and 2) and at 9 pm Tuesday, Nov. 14 (part 3).

A portrait of 3 Muslim military chaplains

A new Independent Lens documentary profiles three current Muslim military chaplains who support and defend the religious rights of all service members. But their leadership sparks accusations of disloyalty and even disapproval from within their own communities. Resisting calls to blend in, the chaplains fight to maintain a balanced devotion to Islam, the Constitution, and the military. Three Chaplains, airing at 9 pm Monday, Nov. 6, uncovers the trials and triumphs of their experiences and dedication to upholding First Amendment rights, while striving for equality and religious freedom.

A closer look at the response in Uvalde

With ProPublica and The Texas Tribune, Frontline provides real-time accounts of the response, missteps, and trauma in the Uvalde school shooting. Using official body cam footage with audio, the chaotic response at Robb Elementary is reconstructed and experts provide insight into the lessons learned. Inside the Uvalde Response airs at 9 pm Tuesday Nov. 7, on Frontline.

A memorial site commemorates those killed at the Robb Elementary School shooting, in Uvalde, Texas.

Filmmaker, her mother confront dementia

In a vibrant tender cine-poem, a filmmaker collaborates with her Nisei mother as they confront the painful curious reality of wisdom "gone wild" in the shadows of dementia. Made over 16 years, Wisdom Gone Wild blends humor and sadness in an encounter between mother and daughter that blooms into an affectionate portrait of love, care, and a relationship transformed. Watch Wisdom Gone Wild on POV at 9 pm Monday, Nov. 20.

Take an insider's tour of high-profile tech companies and labs that are driving China's meteoric rise to the forefront of global innovation in Inside China's Tech Boom (Nov. 8). In the span of just a few decades, China has transformed into a science and technology superpower. But how did it get here and where is it headed? And what does its rise mean for the future of the global economy?

The Battle to Beat Malaria (Nov. 15) explores one of humanity's oldest and most devastating plagues. In many parts of the world, it still sickens or kills millions of people each year. What if it could finally be defeated? Follow researchers in the race to deliver humankind from one of the world's deadliest diseases.

Lee and Liza's Family Tree (Nov. 22) features filmmaker Byron Hurt and his family members as they search for their ancestors with the help of scientists and genealogists. Follow their journey as they hunt for new details of a history long obscured by the enduring legacy of slavery.

Take a tour of exotic Portofino

Glamorous period drama series Hotel Portofino tells the story of an upper-class English family that moves to the Italian Riviera and turns a splendid villa by the sea into a hotel for the British aristocracy. Portofino is a real beautiful seaside village in the heart of the Italian Riviera on the Ligurian Sea. Series executive producer Walter Iuzzolino — born in Italy and raised near Portofino — takes you on an exclusive behind-the-scenes tour of the art and architecture, food and fun, sun-kissed beaches and cobblestone streets of the charming village where the series is filmed. Hotel Portofino: Touring Hotel Portofino airs at 7 pm Sunday, Nov 26.

Return to paradise in season 2

Death in Paradise returns Saturdays at 10 pm beginning Nov. 4, with season 2. DI Richard Poole (Ben Miller) is still trapped on the stunning (fictional) Caribbean island paradise of Saint-Marie — and for him the sun, sea, and sand still continue to irritate, just as he irritates his colleagues. But his eye for detail, relentless logic, and stubborn refusal to leave anything unexplained works well with the instinctive and insightful knowledge of the beautiful Sergeant Camille Bordey (Sara Martins). The team tackles an array of murders including a fatal fire at the convent, an apparent suicide at a plastic surgery clinic, and a murder on a Caribbean party boat.

IPM nominated for 4 regional EMMY awards

The Mid-America Regional Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences nominated two Illinois Public Media documentary productions, as well as a key piece of our WILL100 commemoration, for a total of four regional Emmy awards.

The winners were announced Sept. 30, at the 47th Annual Mid-America Emmy Awards reception in Branson, Missouri.

"As a station that prides itself in offering our region a diverse range of services, it is incredibly gratifying to earn Emmy nominations for such a wide array of categories," said Moss Bresnahan, executive director of Illinois Public Media. "I am thrilled we were recognized for our locally focused documentaries, public affairs programming, and original musical composition."

County Fair received a nomination for Best Documentary – Cultural, as well as a second nod for the trailer for Promotion – Program (single spot). The team includes Sarah Edwards, DJ Roach, and Isaac Musgrave.

For the second year in a row, State of Change was nominated, this time for Best Public Affairs Program. The team included Reginald Hardwick, Tinisha Spain, and Sam Mirpoorian for the 2022 episode that looked at how climate change is impacting Illinois now and in the future. (This year's episode airs at 7:30 pm Thursday, Nov. 9. See cover story on page 1.)

Finally, Randall Reyman was nominated for Best Musical Composition/Arrangement for the WILL Centennial Fanfare.

Congratulations to all our nominees and everyone who worked so hard on all these productions, both behind the scenes and in front of the camera.

Arthouse features psychological drama

Arthouse EXPERIENCE

The next feature in the Arthouse Experience Film Series is a psychological drama starring Philip Seymour Hoffman as a theater director who struggles with his work and the women in his life, as he creates a life-size replica of New York City inside a warehouse as part of his new play. The R-rated film "Synecdoche, New York" (2008) will be shown at 7 pm Friday, Dec. 1, at the Virginia Theatre.

Hosted by Illinois Public Media and the Champaign Park District, films in the series are limited-release, high-quality titles that have captured the imagination of movie lovers. Films will be followed by a post-show discussion and in some cases an on-stage talk by directors, producers, and other special guests.

General admission tickets ($7 per film) are available at the Virginia Theatre box office, online at thevirginia.org, or charge by phone at 217-356-9063.

At right, award-winning journalist Jeremy Hobson returned to the WILL radio studios on Sept. 28, to launch 'The Middle,' his new weekly national live call-in show. Above, Hobson talked to donors about the program before the broadcast.

Serving Central Illinois for More Than 100 years!!

During a special live taping of 'The 21st Show' in Collins Studio on Oct. 10, host Brian Mackey interviewed Indigenous scholar and University of Illinois professor of history Rosalyn LaPier. Ken Burns joined the conversation via Zoom. They talked about Burns' film 'The American Buffalo' that aired last month. LaPier talked about her role as an adviser and on-camera expert. Radio feature on Roger Cooper earns PMA Illinois Public Media recently received a Public Media Award from the National Educational Telecommunications Association. The award honored the feature story "Roger Cooper's 'Classically Black' Provided a Showcase for Black Musicians" for local storytelling in radio.

The 2022 segment was reported by Jim Meadows, who is now an ag reporter and the host of All Things Considered, and edited by News and Public Affairs Director Reginald Hardwick, and, of course, inspired and assisted by Cooper, longtime WILL-FM classical host.

At the time, Meadows was focusing on features on WILL's history during its centennial year. He wanted to recognize Cooper's contributions to WILL-FM and highlight how he filled a gap with programs celebrating Black performers and composers, including the annual Classically Black series that began in the late 1980s and aired during Black History Month.

"I had always considered Roger Cooper to be one of the more memorable voices associated with WILL. And I wanted to make sure our classical music programming was represented in the features stories I produced for WILL's centennial year," Meadows said.

"In our interviews, Roger talked about his early love for classical music, and how he thought as a child that it simply wasn't the type of music that Black people had much involvement in," Meadows said. "He eventually learned otherwise, and Classically Black, which was later distributed nationally, was a distillation of his interest in bringing the work of Black musicians and composers to listeners."

"Classically Black was one of the highlights of my time at WILL-FM," Cooper said. "What a thrill it was to speak with William Warfield, John Wustman, Martina Arroyo, Adolphus Hailstorck, Dr. George Walker, and others who were pivotal in breaking classical music boundaries."

Cooper retired from WILL-FM in 2008, but episodes of Classically Black can still be heard during Black History Month.

"Congratulations to Jim and Reggie for being honored. It is nice to be remembered," Cooper said.

INBA recognizes breaking weather coverage

Andrew Pritchard

Illinois Public Media Meteorologist Andrew Pritchard has won a 2023 Crystal Mic Award from the Illinois News Broadcasters Association for breaking news (small market radio).

The award recognizes critical information provided by IPM News during the widespread severe weather event on June 29, 2023.

"This was a long day that began with urgent warnings in the early morning and concluded with reporting on the damage over local and national airwaves from a home with no electricity late that night," Pritchard said.

He said News and Public Affairs Director Reginald Hardwick and senior digital media producer Steve Morck contributed to the critical coverage.

"It's an honor to work alongside Reginald and Steve, and I think we provide some of the best severe weather coverage in the Midwest," Pritchard said. "To win an award for reporting on damaging thunderstorms is a huge honor, and something I honestly never had on my radar."

Pritchard began working for IPM in 2003 in the weather office assisting Chief Meteorologist Ed Kieser. Six years after the weather department was eliminated due to budget cuts, weather services returned in 2017 with the help of Kieser, Hardwick, and many others. Pritchard provides daily weather forecasts and additional coverage during disruptive weather events.

"It's a great privilege to be given the platform that IPM provides me to deliver critical, life-saving weather updates to my community," he said. "IPM is a world-class, trusted source of information for the state of Illinois, and to be the trusted weather voice during scary weather events is a childhood dream come true."
