November 2022 Vol. XLVIII, No. 5

November promises to be another busy month here at Illinois Public Media. Our newsroom has been hard at work providing election coverage, and we have big plans for delivering results and context during and after Nov. 8. I am also incredibly excited about the premiere of this year's State of Change, our annual environmental special where Tinisha Spain looks at the impacts of climate change on the state of Illinois. Plus, WILL-TV and PBS have several programs dedicated to Native American Heritage Month and Veteran's Day.

I hope you have a chance to read the full version of Katie Buzard's WILL 100 story this month, because it's all about you, the Friends of WILL. It's incredible to think what a huge impact our donors have had over the course of our history, and especially over the last 50 years. You can see a snippet of the article here in Patterns, page 18, but you can take a deeper dive at will.illinois.edu/will100.

And speaking of celebrating the Friends of WILL, if you are available on Nov. 16, please come by Campbell Hall for our 100th anniversary Friendsgiving event. This is our chance to celebrate this big anniversary with all of you and thank you in person for what you have meant to this station over the years. You can find more information on page 19. We hope to see you then!

Tinisha Spain hosts 'State of Change,' an Illinois Public Media production covering environmental topics across the state.

COVER STORY

'State of Change' looks at environmental dangers, advances in Illinois

Illinois Public Media presents the second installment of its State of Change series on WILL-TV and on PBS stations across the state as it examines the evolving natural conditions of Illinois in a half-hour special at 7:30 pm Thursday, Nov. 17. This episode is the culmination of months of conversations with meteorologists, farmers, ecologists, and people tracking plants and animals in our state.

Among the stories in this special report:

- Toxic coal ash is seeping into the Middle Fork of the Vermilion River and Kickapoo State Recreation Area. The report shows why the area is at risk for a catastrophic flood of waste from a shuttered coal plant.
- How companies are paying Illinois farmers to plant cover crops during the winter, to help pull carbon dioxide out of the air.
- Concrete production is a huge carbon dioxide emitter. But Illinois researchers and companies have begun producing a reduced carbon concrete.

- An Illinois couple shows how their beer distillery and adjacent bar are run completely by renewable energy.

Illinois Public Media environmental reporter Tinisha Spain returns to host and produce the show which features former ag reporter Dana Cronin, who produced and reported on the cover crops story. News and Public Affairs Director Reginald Hardwick is the executive producer.

Last year's inaugural episode was awarded the 2022 Public Media Journalists award, and also was nominated for the 2022 National Association of Black Journalists Salute To Excellence award and a 2022 Mid-America Emmy.

Funds for State of Change were provided by the Backlund Charitable Trust.

Count on us for live election coverage

After you vote, how do you get the most trusted accurate information as results come in on Nov. 8? The answer is the same place that (we hope) you consulted before you voted: Illinois Public Media. On election night, look for hourly updates on WILL-TV and radio, and instant results streaming online.

From 7 to 11pm, WILL-AM and -FM will feature national coverage from NPR with Illinois results on our newscasts at the top of the hour.

On WILL-TV, VOTE 2022: Election Night Special begins at 8 pm with PBS NewsHour live news, results, and analysis of the midterm elections. Illinois results will be updated during the last five minutes of the hour.

In addition, real-time results will appear on will.illinois.edu and IllinoisNewsroom.org with Associated Press results in statewide races and congressional races throughout Illinois.

NOVEMBER FEATURES

NATIVE AMERICAN HERITAGE MONTH

A groundbreaking career, life

Over a career spanning six decades, Cree musician, artist, and activist Buffy Sainte-Marie has used her platform to campaign for Indigenous and women's rights and inspired multiple generations of musicians, artists, and activists. During her five-year stint on Sesame Street, the iconic singer helped teach a generation of children about Indigenous cultures.

American Masters: Buffy Sainte-Marie: Carry It On premieres at 8 pm Tuesday, Nov. 22.

Exploring through science, culture

Native America, a four-part series beginning at 10 pm Wednesday, Nov. 2, features traditional knowledge held by America's first peoples, history-changing scientific discoveries, and rarely heard voices from the living legacies of Native American cultures. This encore presentation includes University of Illinois archaeologists exploring Cahokia Mounds in episode 3, Cities of the Sky, airing Nov. 16. Timothy Pauketat and Kristin Hedman studied Cahokia and its people through evidence uncovered by excavations at the pre-Columbian city in Illinois, near present-day St. Louis.

New adventures in Qyah

Molly of Denali takes on new adventures (new episodes) beginning Monday, Nov. 17.

The award-winning animated PBS KIDS series, which airs daily at 6 am on WILL-TV, follows the adventures of curious and resourceful 10-year-old Molly Mabray, an Alaska Native girl who lives in the fictional village of Qyah, Alaska. Molly helps her mom and dad run the Denali Trading Post — a general store, bunkhouse, and transport hub — where she assists tourists, trekkers, and scientists, and sometimes rides along in Mom's bush plane or makes deliveries via dog sled. Molly of Denali is the first nationally distributed children's series to feature a Native American and Alaska Native lead character. For the accompanying podcast and games, visit pbskids.org.

SOCIAL JUSTICE LEARNING

In conjunction with Native American Heritage Month, we encourage you to check out Illinois Public Media's Social Justice Learning space that focuses on the experiences of Native people. Divided into sections for early childhood, adolescents, and adults, this digital learning space honors Native people's unique and vast makeup and celebrates a diverse set of accomplishments.

Local veterans share their war experiences

In celebration of WILL's centennial year, we are revisiting some of our most popular and acclaimed locally produced documentaries. This month, we feature Vietnam: Soldiers' Stories as part of Doc-u-Monday.

Illinois and Indiana Vietnam veterans reflect on their war experiences 26 years later in the WILL-TV documentary Vietnam: Soldiers' Stories that was produced in 2000. The soldiers talk about how those experiences shaped who they are. Their powerful stories are woven with combat footage, some of it filmed by John Laemmar, one of the veterans sharing personal accounts of the war and its aftermath. Vietnam: Soldiers' Stories, airing at 8 pm Monday, Nov. 7, was produced by Tim Hartin with co-producers Carol Forsythe and David Inge. Other soldiers featured include Richard Adkins, Ray Burns, Randy Evans, Anna Rutallie, and Paul Wisovaty.

Anna Rutallie, Nurse Corps., 91st Evacuation Hospital, is featured in the WILL-TV documentary; photo shot at Chu Lai in Vietnam in 1970 or '71.

IN TRIBUTE TO OUR NATION'S VETERANS

Candid conversations with veterans

Join host Stacy Pearsall, a retired Air Force staff sergeant and former aerial combat photojournalist, as she talks with three veterans who have all had close brushes with death. The program, airing at 10 pm Tuesday, Nov. 15, is the first episode of After Action, with the full seven-part series airing in January 2023. Although they have each faced adversities on their journeys, the veterans reveal how they stay positive and what their life is like after action.

WW II: Women's perspectives

Narrated by actress Jane Lynch, hear the stories of more than two dozen women and what they experienced during the war in Her War, Her Story: World War II, airing at 3:30 pm Sunday, Nov. 6.

Pioneering photographer

Charlotte Mansfield: A Woman Photographer Goes to War tells the story of the pioneering military career of Charlotte Dee Mansfield, a photographer and photo analyst in the Women's Army Corps. The film airs at 4:30 pm Sunday, Nov. 6.

The canine connection

Follow disabled veterans whose lives are transformed through the love of service dogs in The Greatest Bond, airing at 10 pm Friday, Nov. 11. Join three veterans as they meet their service dog and work directly with the inmates in a Texas women's prison who train the canines.

Escobar presents classic flute recordings

In a special rescheduled from May, Flutist Julia Escobar joins host John Frayne to share her favorite flute records on Classics of the Phonograph at 11 am Saturday, Nov. 5, on WILL-FM. In tune with the series, the recordings will be from the 20th century, although the music dates from the 18th to 20th centuries.

Escobar, a doctoral student at the University of Illinois, is the first John Frayne Classical Music Graduate Student Work Experience Fellow at Illinois Public Media. "The selections will focus on chamber music for the flute," Escobar said. "My goal is to bring new repertoire to the audience and to get some airtime for my favorite instrument."

King Tut: the man behind the golden mask

Commemorate the 100th anniversary of the opening of King Tut’s tomb by exploring the mysteries of his life and burial in a new two-hour special Tutankhamun: Allies and Enemies. Airing at 7 pm Wednesday, Nov. 23, the documentary was made by an entirely Egyptian crew, including archeologist Yasmin El Shazly and photographer Mahmoud Rashad, and it seeks to answer some of the mysteries surrounding their great civilization. Shot on location with unprecedented access to dig sites and experts, the special seeks to give Tut a voice to tell his own story. The golden mask is breathtaking, but the young man behind it is far more precious. It’s time to reveal the real person behind the mask.

Vintage Willie Nelson from 1984

In 1984, Willie Nelson was at the height of his popularity, having racked up 16 No. 1 country hits over the previous decade and crossing over to the pop charts multiple times. In February of that year, Willie performed in Tokyo to kick off a five-city tour that marked his first time playing in Japan. The video of that concert was never seen anywhere else, and the audio was never released — until now. Willie Nelson: Live at the Budokan, airing at 7 pm Wednesday, Nov. 30, includes classics such as “Whiskey River,” “Always On My Mind,” and “On the Road Again.”

Join us at the Virginia for new film series

The Virginia Theatre Arthouse Experience Film Series continues this fall with “They Shall Not Grow Old,” playing at 7 pm Wednesday, Nov. 9, at the Virginia Theatre, 203 W. Park Ave., Champaign. This 2019 documentary commemorates the centennial of the end of World War I with never-before-seen footage.

Arthouse EXPERIENCE

Hosted by Illinois Public Media and the Champaign Park District, the series is programmed by guest curator Sanford Hess, who selects a mix of award winners, Ebertfest favorites, and recent classics to be presented one Wednesday each month on the Virginia’s 52-foot-wide movie screen with state-of-the-art surround sound. Each film will be followed by discussion and in some cases an onstage talk by directors, producers, and other guests.

General admission tickets are $7 per film and are available at the Virginia Theatre box office, online at thevirginia.org, or charge by phone at 217-356-9063.

Film descriptions and the season’s schedule, is available at go.illinois.edu/arthouse-films.

We've got a friend in you

By Katie Buzard

It's November and for many of us, it's the time of year when we stop to give thanks — thanks for our families, our friends, the food on our table, the roof above our heads. Here at Illinois Public Media, November is also the month we celebrate our supporters: the loyal Friends of WILL. Three years ago, we celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Friends of WILL. In this, our centenary year, let us once again revisit how the Friends of WILL came to be and how those first volunteers helped expand WILL's outreach, creating a platform for the central Illinois community to invest in our future.

The year was 1974. America was reckoning with the aftermath of the 1973 oil crisis, which had led to excessive inflation. The costs associated with broadcasting had shot up, and even with the university's funding and newly won federal support for public broadcasting, WILL could not keep up. But WILL was not alone in this struggle. Even though the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967 created the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, its federal funding was still under threat during the Nixon administration. The National Friends of Public Broadcasting (NFPB), a network of public media volunteers and volunteer coordinators, was established in 1971 to support public broadcasting's mission of producing quality educational and cultural programming. The NFPB held annual conferences to recruit and train new volunteer coordinators for stations around the country.

The newly appointed director of broadcasting at WILL, Don Mullally, had an idea to create a local Friends organization for WILL. However, due to Illinois statutes, a formal nonprofit organization could not be established for this purpose because WILL is a unit of a state university. So, Mullally approached the American Association of University Women about creating an informal group of volunteers that would help the station expand and enrich its offerings by donating their time, money, and talents.

To solicit funds from the public, the newly formed Friends of WILL decided to host on-air pledge drives. The first pledge drive for WILL-AM in June 1974 garnered $12,236 in pledges from 513 people. WILL-TV held its first television pledge drive the following month, netting over $15,000 in pledges. After two more fundraising drives that year, WILL had secured over $55,000 in pledges. In five short months, the Friends of WILL had grown from a handful of ardent advocates of public broadcasting to over 2,000 supporters. The donated funds were used to underwrite new programs, update equipment, hire staff, and expand the classical music library.

SHARE YOUR STORY

Our 100th anniversary is more than a date; it is a once in a lifetime opportunity to share WILL's amazing story with everyone. We hope you'll join us in celebrating this centennial by sharing your own WILL stories and memories at will.illinois.edu/will100/shareyourstory.

"I have lived and worked in several states since leaving Illinois. In each place, I searched for a great public radio station. My expectation from listening to WILL-FM set the bar high, so I never found a station that measured up. Through WILL-FM, I was often introduced to less familiar (classical) pieces. I've found that other classical music stations don't offer that thoughtful curation.

"So now I livestream WILL-FM from New Mexico. It strikes a reliably good balance of rich classical music, NPR news and commentary, and regionally relevant programming such as Brian Mackey's The 21st, which explores a range of thought when our society is polarized and siloed. Illinois needs this type of dialogue. America needs it. The world needs it. ... "

ILLINOIS PUBLIC MEDIA Friendsgiving

Join us for a 100th anniversary open house

On Wednesday, Nov. 16, we are opening our doors for a special WILL 100 Friendsgiving celebration. We would love for you to stop by the station between 5 and 7 pm, for a tour of our studios, to see our various 100th anniversary artifacts, win some "vintage" fund drive premiums, and help us celebrate the culmination of this milestone year. Light refreshments will be provided. We are located at 300 N Goodwin Ave. in Urbana. Parking will be available in lots B-22 and B-17, which are located to the north and east of our building.

Help us kick off the season of giving

Giving Tuesday kicks off the year-end giving season this Nov. 29. The annual day of giving offers the opportunity to take a break from holiday shopping and give back to community organizations.

Here at Illinois Public Media, we remain committed to providing reliable news, arts coverage, and educational programming.

Some generous Friends of WILL plan to offer a special challenge fund to encourage your support, so stay tuned for more details. We hope you consider our efforts in keeping you

Two new staff members join business office

Michelle Dong and Barb Pesch have joined the College of Media Shared Services Business Office and will serve Illinois Public Media. Both work in Campbell Hall, and they work with other college business office staff, located in Gregory Hall, who serve other college and department needs.

Michelle Dong

Michelle Dong is an accounting officer, who started as Extra Help in the College of Media in April and then was hired full time by Illinois Public Media in August.

"When Michelle joined the Business Office through Extra Help in the spring, she was eager to learn all she could," said Amy Leng, director of budget and resource planning, College of Media. "And in a very short time, she became a valuable member of the team."

Dong provides general accounting and financial support to the Illinois Public Media staff. Her main emphasis is on purchasing, paying invoices, and reconciling accounts but she is trained in several other accounting duties as well.

In her new position, Dong is looking forward to gaining more accounting experience. And since English is her second language (her native language is Vietnamese), she also hopes to improve her English skills.

Dong earned a bachelor's degree in public health science at the University of Irvine, California, and an associate of applied science degree in accounting from Parkland College.

"My educational background in accounting combined with my experience in tax preparation have enabled me to manage multiple tasks," Dong said. "I have strong mathematical skills. I can solve problems in crucial situations, and I work well under pressure."

Her favorite programs are Daniel Tiger's Neighborhood and Sesame Street.

She enjoys cooking, traveling, and gardening.

Barb Pesch

Barb Pesch is a financial analyst who came to the Urbana campus last year from the University of Illinois Springfield, where she was the business and operations manager for NPR Illinois/WUIS public radio.

At Illinois Public Media, she is primarily responsible for overseeing the annual Corporation for Public Broadcasting audit and financial reporting, and she also manages the grant and gift portfolio.

"Barb brings decades of work experience to her role at IPM," Leng said. "She has a great eye for detail and a wonderful spirit of customer service. We are thankful she's a part of the Business Office team."

"I'm excited to learn new things about public radio and TV and to work with the other excellent staff members in the business office and at IPM," Pesch said.

She is an accounting graduate of the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. "I worked for a Big Eight accounting firm in Los Angeles for four years after graduation and then moved back home to central Illinois where my husband and I operated our own small business for 30 years," Pesch said.

She admits to bias when asked about her favorite public media programs.

"Of course, I am partial to The 21st with Brian Mackey who I worked with briefly at NPR Illinois prior to him leaving for IPM," Barb said. "I also love to hear Brian, Vic, and others who I get to see at Campbell Hall in their studios. And I listen to Statewide and State Week."

She and her husband are grandparents of (nearly) 1-year-old twins. They also are a proud Illini family with many Illinois grads.

Thank you, Program Underwriters!

Private support accounts for the largest single source of funds necessary to make Illinois Public Media and the WILL stations great resources for communities across central Illinois.
